PITTSBURGH MOTHER KILLS HER TWO CHILDREN

Will Finds Stills in Mountain Park; Only Roads Needed

(Special To The News)

ASHVILLE, N. C., March 8.—Spent the day in the mountains with my eastern Cherokee brothers, the ones that old Andrew Jackson wasn't able to run out of this country.

They are pretty poor and their land is poor and they don't get anything from the government, but they are not hollering for relief.

Was also in the Big Smoky Mountain Park that Rockfeller just gave $5,000,000 to today.

It's going to be the Yellowstone of the south. It's beautiful and can't help from being a big success as a public park for tourists.

They got the stills in there already. All they got to do now is to get the roads into 'em.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

New Castle high school basketball team invaded Pittsburgh again last night and came home victorious. The local lads are steadily advancing towards the W. P. I. A. L. championship, and local enthusiasts are looking for the team to repeat this spring and turn back all of the competing teams for the honor in the Pitt Stadium gym. Fine!

Spring is coming on apace! And with coming of mild weather will come a rapid increase in auto traffic over the roads in this section of Western Pennsylvania. "See Pennsylvania first" should be the slogan for all New Castle tourists this summer, and it would be a good slogan to start in motion anywhere possible. Pennsylvania offers just as much in the way of interest for summer tourists as any place in the country, and this fact cannot be too strongly stressed. New Castle is in the path of thousands of tourists each summer, and the fact should be taken advantage of. More home town boosting to this tourist army would be advisable. There are numerous ways this can be done. Do your bit!

It begins to appear as if New Castle is to become an airplane centre in reality this summer. Two planes for two different airport projects are already reported as purchased and arrangements made for delivery here. The flying fever has also struck some of the youths of the district as well, and purchase of individual planes is being considered, if reports are to be believed.

Battle on the corn borer is about to be renewed in Lawrence County. An effective battle that was started against this pest in Western Pennsylvania last summer will be prosecuted with vigor this summer.

If the way that local accountants are working on income tax returns is any criterion, New Castle is a rich city. One man of our acquaintance claims that he works every day from eight o'clock in the morning to ten at night. Make hay while the sun shines is his motto.

As the season progresses, more and more signs of an early spring are noticed. This morning, as Pa Newc sleepily waited for the street car, blue birds in a neighboring tree were chirping for all they were worth. Even the air feels of spring.

While this is not divulging a secret, one member of the Freeman's club is contemplating, and the boys will give him a bachelor supper in the near future. But it will be a sad affair, much given to reproaches to a fallen member.

Announcement made yesterday that plans had been completed and bids are being asked for the erection of a

Man Accused Of Murder Denies Any Dismembering Of Body Of Girl

(International News Service)

NEW PHILADELPHIA, Ohio, March 8.—Part of a skeleton found in the Tuscarawas river, and believed to have been that of Viola May, 23, murder victim, whose body is supposed to have been thrown into the stream, is that of a six-foot man, an autopsy revealed today.

Three physicians examined the parts at the office of Coroner J. F. Lewis and said they were those of a man. The May girl was 4 feet 4 inches tall, and the bones indicated the man was six feet.

Evidence that the lower part of the body had been cut by a sharp instrument suggested that the parts had been discarded after use by medical students the doctors said.

Not Her Body.

William D. Herron 41, brother-in-law and confessed slayer of the May girl was taken to the coroner's office to view the find.

"That's not Viola" declared Herron. "When you find her body it will be entire, just as I threw her in."

To questions by Coroner Lewis, Herron denied he had burned or dismembered the girl's body.

According to Herron's alleged confession he threw the girl's body in the river February 7 after he had attacked her and choked her to death following a quarrel.

Col. Lindbergh Takes Air With Two Companions

Secrecy Surrounds Destination Of Lindbergh And Two Companions Today

LEAVE WASHINGTON SHORTLY AFTER NOON

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Still taciturn and uncommunicative about his future plans, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh took off from Bolling Field at 12:01 o'clock today for an unannounced destination.

His departure ended a stay of 48 hours in the capital, through all of which he remained in seclusion at a private club, with the single exception of a visit to the state department yesterday. He would neither confirm nor deny reports that he was planning to enter a Baltimore hospital for a rest.

Lindbergh was accompanied in the Ryan plane by Henry Breckenridge of St. Louis, one of Lindbergh's financial backers and Maj. Thomas P. Lanphier, commander of the army flying field at Selfridge Field, Mich.

All declined to state where they were going, but it was variously reported that either St. Louis, Detroit or New York was the destination.

First Reports Of "Holy War" Action Reported Today

(International News Service)

LONDON, March 8. — First reports of action in the "Holy War" declared by Sultan Ibn Saud, king of the Hedjaz, against Iraq and Trans-Jordania reached London this evening from Basra.

A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company said that small detachments of Wahabis had raided across the Trans-Jordania border and captured a number of villages.

British marines have been paraded at Howeit, awaiting emergencies and armored cars and airplanes are stationed outside the city walls.

Special Church Services Held In Chicago To Pray For Crime Deliverance

Prayers Urge That Chicago Be Led Out Of "Jungle Of Crime"

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, March 8.—More than 100,000 Chicagoans, it was estimated today went to special church services here yesterday and prayed for divine assistance in leading the city "out of the jungle of crime."

The special prayer meetings were held in several hundred Protestant churches at the instance of the Chicago Ministers' Association. At each their duty at the polls. All were urged to vote in the April primary and to pray for guidance in the selection of their candidates.

One of the largest meetings took place at the Chicago Temple, the Rev. John Thompson, pastor, officiating. Hundreds of workers from downtown stores were in attendance. In the course of his prayer Chicago may be purged of vice and corruption, Dr. Thompson said:

"O thou didst care for Nineveh and didst spare it, and thou didst weep over Jerusalem; dost still brood over these great modern cities. We pray thee to rule over Chicago, this young and strong, good and bad city, and out of man's worst bring thine own best."

ESCH VOTE WILL COME NEXT WEEK

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 8.—A vote by the senate on the question of confirming the reappointment of John J. Esch, Jr., of Wisconsin, as a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission will be taken next week.

The senate Interstate Commerce committee recommended rejection of the appointment by a vote of 11 to 7. A minority report, being written by Senator Fess (R) of Ohio, will defend Esch's services on the commission and urge his confirmation.

There were indications Esch, however, would be rejected.

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PAINESVILLE, O., March 8.—Medical science is puzzled by the remarkable case of Helen L. Buschmann, 19 year old college student of 21 Pearl street, Westfield, Mass., who has been lying unconscious in Lake County Memorial hospital in Painesville for fifty-three days.

She lapsed into an unconscous state on January 15 when she was struck by an automobile bus and immediately removed to the hospital. Since that day she has not spoken a word and has not moved, except for occasional nervous gestures over which the mind has no control.

FIRE DESTROYS GREEK CHURCH IN HOMESTEAD

(International News Service)

HOMESTEAD, Pa., March 8. — Fire of undetermined origin today gutted the St. Elias Greek Catholic church here causing damage estimated at $75,000, part of which was covered by insurance.

A policeman on the beat rescued the Rev. Humphrey Szabo, pastor, his wife and six children, ranging in age from one to 12 years, all of whom were sleeping in the adjoining parsonage.

The fire was raging when a large window of the church fell out on the home of the pastor, at 6 o'clock this morning, arousing the occupants. The family was forced to flee to the street in night clothes.

The pastor made a vain attempt to save the sacraments of the church, but was unable to salvage a thing.

WILL START RAZING BUILDING ON SITE

Solomon One Of Leading Business Men Of Seventh Ward District

One of the largest sales of real estate in the seventh ward in some time was consummated today when Thomas Solomon, well known stationer of Liberty street purchased the store building known as the Newell property at the corner of Wabash and Liberty streets.

Mr. Solomon plans to tear down the present building and erect a two-story brick block on it, using the lower floor for business purposes and the upper floor for apartments. Work on the demolition of the present building is expected to start immediately and the construction of the new building will start within a short time.

Splendid Site.

The site purchased by Mr. Solomon is one of the best in the seventh ward and will be an admirable one for his newspaper, magazine and confectionery business. For many years Mr. Solomon has represented the New Castle News in the seventh ward and also a number of other newspapers and periodicals.

The property just purchased by Mr. Solomon fronts 40 feet on Liberty street and 150 feet on Wabash avenue, a corner site, and for that reason more valuable. For some time it was occupied by the grocery firm of Elder & Martin, but recently this firm discontinued business.

ENTERS GUILTY PLEA TO MURDER CHARGE

Intended To Shoot His Father Says Dyken, As Only Comment On Crime

(International News Service)

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., March 8.—Life imprisonment in the Ohio state penitentiary was the sentence imposed today on Andy Dyken, 15, following his plea of guilty to second degree murder in connection with the killing of his mother last December.

Young Dyken said he killed his mother in an attempt to shoot his father at their farm home.

Dyken, arraigned before Judge Warren W. Cowen, verified the statement of his attorney that he had agreed to plead guilty to second degree murder and the judge said there was no alternative but to sentence him to prison for life. He is the youngest prisoner ever given a life sentence in Ohio.

As the judge pronounced sentence, Dyken gulped several times, but made no comment and was escorted back to his cell by Sheriff Clyde Hardesty, and next Tuesday will be taken to prison.

The courtroom was crowded when the boy was arraigned. A first degree murder charge was nolle prossed. Other charges growing out of the wounding of his father and a farm laborer, also will be quashed.

Goal Of Hinchcliffe Shrouded In Mystery

(International News Service)

LONDON, Mar. 8.—While a powerful Stinson Detroiter monoplane rested upon the field at the Cranwell Airdrome, in Lincolnshire, today poised for and supplied for a long flight with the Hon. Elsie Mackay and Capt. Walter Hinchcliffe as its occupants, there was mystery as to the plane's destination.

A sensational report was printed by the Daily Express that Miss Mackay and Hinchcliffe would hop off on a non-stop trans-Atlantic flight for America, but later developments indicated that the flyers planned to head towards India. The Daily Express published a circumstantial account of the plans for a trans-Atlantic flight, but there was no confirmation from either Miss Mackay or Capt. Hinchcliffe.

Mrs. Hinchcliffe, wife of the pilot-ace, said her husband contemplated a flight to India. She declared she knew nothing of any plan to attempt a trans-Atlantic flight.

Expert aviators said it would be a most dangerous undertaking to try to fly over the North Atlantic at this time of the year on account of storms.

Erection of a bridge over the Neshannock creek at North street was recommended in presentments made by the grand jury Wednesday evening. This action was taken after testimony had been presented in which the necessity for the bridge was pointed out. The main point stressed by the witnesses was that a bridge at North street would do more to relieve traffic congestion in the down town section, than a bridge at any other point.

The grand jury also recommended that the county commissioners erect a bridge at Kennedy's Mills, to take the place of the old covered bridge, which has done duty across the Slippery Rock at this point for more than fifty years. The bridge was recently found to be unsafe and notices have been

Home Tragedy Is Discovered By Neighbors

Mother Also Attempts To End Own Life, But Is Not Successful

LEAVES NOTE WITH CHILDREN'S BODIES

Says Children Are Better Off; Cause Of Tragedy Not Yet Known

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, March 8.—A mother killed her two children and then failed in an attempt to take her own life in their second floor apartment here, police reported today.

The babies, Billie Ward, three years, and Dorothy May, eight months, were found dead in the apartment, and their mother, Mrs. Catherine Ward, 25, was expected to recover from wrist wounds inflicted with a razor blade, according to police.

Billie was found in a bathtub partly filled with water, a rag tied around his neck and a deep knife wound which reached to his heart.

In her crib in the mother's bedroom was Dorothy May, the diaper which was the instrument of death, cutting her neck.

Mother Gives Alarm

The mother gave the first alarm. Running to the apartment of Mrs. E. T. Clifford on the first floor, shortly before noon, she cried:

"Both are dead! Get somebody, Mrs. Clifford."

Neighbors rushed to the Clifford apartment. In the excitement somebody telephoned engine company No. 19.

Police and firemen rushed to the Ward apartment. There Fire Captain Robert Watson found the two children and a note signed by Mrs. Ward and addressed to Mrs. Clifford on the face of an old envelope. It read:

"The kiddies are in the bathroom. They are better off."

It was several minutes after the body of Billie, who wore only underclothes, was found that Dorothy May was discovered.

Find Girl's Body

Fireman Dan Troppoli passed through the bedroom and saw what he thought was a doll in the crib. He left the room. He returned and found the "doll" was Dorothy May, after neighbors had told him there were two Ward children.

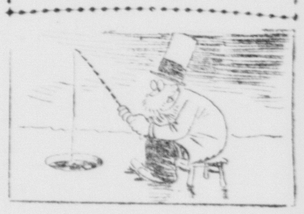

Mrs. Ward's bleeding wrists were bandaged in the Clifford apartment and she was ordered to Pittsburgh hospital in an ambulance by Dr. E. S. Warner.

Bloodstains in the Clifford home and on the rear fire escape took police to the Ward kitchen, where a line of crimson ended at the bathtub which held Billie.

Rescue workers from the safety mine appliance applied an inhalator to Dorothy May and worked feverishly over her body. They said their

Radical Elements In United Mine Organization Protest Lewis' Policy

START PLANS TO OUST JOHN L. LEWIS

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, March 8.—Radical elements in the United Mine Workers of America today flared anew in a protest against the administration of John L. Lewis, president of the organization.

The latest outburst took the form of an announcement that a conference of the union will be called for April 1 in Pittsburgh to oust Lewis and to have the mine workers adopt a policy of greater aggressiveness in pursuance of picketing and other strike activities.

The announcement was made by Patrick Toohey, former official of a union local at Canonsburg. John Brophy of Clearfield and Powers Hapgood of Indianapolis, are said to be behind the move.

Hapgood and Brophy presented the fireworks at the Indianapolis convention of the United Mine Workers a year ago by their denunciation of Lewis and his policies.

Toohey and Brophy are scheduled to receive a hearing before an alderman next Wednesday as a result of their arrest by state police who dispersed a meeting of striking miners at Renton, Allegheny county.

modern school building at Princeton, in the eastern end of the county, means that it will be but a short time until the pupils in that area will have school facilities second to none in the county. The building will be used as a community centre as well. Lawrence county rural communities have made great strides during the past few years in the matter of improved school facilities. Many of the little one room school houses have been supplanted by the modern consolidated schools with the consequent improved conditions for the pupils.

Climax of the collegiate basketball season in Lawrence County comes on Saturday night at the Westminster College gymnasium, when the Westminster conference champs will play Grove City. According to advices from Westminster, the tickets for the game are all sold, and were sold some time ago. Hundreds more would attend this game if there was a possibility of providing accommodations. But only so many can get inside the building, and that's that.

It was some sort of an Airdale, but in its family tree there was a mongrel strain. Little beady eyes shone from in under bushy brows, and it yawned contentedly. Its mistress, evidently, had gone into one of the Mill street grocery stores. So the dog sat in the car, both front pays on the steering wheel, patiently waiting her return.

Note to the biographer of this, the Jazz Age: One of the cleverest glasses that he has ever seen was shown to Pa Newc yesterday by a friend who we know, and is in the pay on the anti-Prohibition league. It was the size of a rather large beverage glass, and on the side were graduations. The lowest, marking the smallest amount of liquid the glass could contain, was marked "Ladies." The next graduation was marked "Gentlemen," and the last, far above the others, was not marked. Instead there was a picture of a pig.

As one approached New Castle this morning in the clear sunshine from higher land about 5 miles from the city a large black cloud of smoke was seen to hang over the city and gave appearance of a Vesuvius. And it is a Vesuvius, a Vesuvius of industry again begins to erupt, belching forth volumes of smoke. And as we entered New Castle, what a contrast to find one plunged from the clearest air and bright sunshine into a bank of copper colored smoke which the sun could no penetrate. But what do we care. The more smoke the more work, and more happy homes with the prosperity that returns.

Members of the hook and ladder company at the central fire department, are now engaged in doing a little house cleaning. Ladders of the aerial truck are being scrubbed and cleaned up and then tightened up, after which they are being given a coat of shellac and varnish. The result will be that in the near future the truck will have the appearance of a brand new piece of apparatus.

Here's one for you to crack. Thomas Armstrong, one of the first men ever employed on the local electric street car lines, while reminiscing the other day, raised the question of whether there had ever been horse drawn street cars in New Castle. Most of his listeners, who had been around these parts for some time, rather thought not. But they were not sure. It might be interesting, for some person to give some information on the subject.

Two Small Boys Found On Road, Apparently Lost

Constable Water Bannon of West Pittsburg reported to the News this afternoon that two small boys, about 4 or 5 years of age, were found on the West Pittsburg-New Castle road, about half way between the towns, this afternoon. The boys were apparently lost, and could not tell where their homes are, so they were taken to the Margaret Henry home, where parents can get it touch with them. One of the lads said his name was "Happy".

GIRL READY TO TUMBLE OVER FALLS

seeking the thrill of thrills. And she has decided that going over Niagara Falls in a barrel on the Fourth of July might do for a take-off.

She is Marie Bessie Hall—just Bessie in circus life—of Pittsburgh. The intrepid blue-eyed 30-year-old Titan has been keeping a rooming house for the last five years and has "gone stale as a flock of mildew", in her big tent lingo.

Bessie says the police chief of Niagara Falls has given her permission and that the barrel is at this very moment under construction at New Kensington, Pa. It will be padded with rubber and otherwise garnished and equipped by a company in Akron, O.

Must Be at Own Risk.

All the police want to make certain of is that Bessie makes her plunge at her own risk. And she laughs this off as funny with:

"Certainly! It's my neck, isn't it? All I ask is that I live till the Fourth of July so I can prove I got the nerve to do it."

Her training is to be a few trips over dams around Pittsburgh. She contemplated being thrown from a bridge in the barrel, but that's out, because she has decided it wouldn't be quite the same as going over the Falls. Swimming lessons and physical training also are on the list.

Appears as if She Would.

Marie Bessie's blue eyes are the unshifting two-gun man eyes of the circus—blue and like two points of steel. Her manner is not mannish—but she seems so sure of herself that you really believe after a talk with her that she could emulate the legendary Indian girl who went over Niagara in a canoe—and not even get damp.

Just what possessed the lady of the sawdust life to crave such an experience is beyond even her explanation. She confides with a puzzled look on her face:

"I don't know. Something just gets into me sometimes and I'd 'bust' if I didn't do something reckless. I hiked across the continent in eight weeks on a $1,000 bet in 1925 with the Philadelphia Moose lodge and missed the bet by three hours and 50 minutes. Only got $500—and the rest went to some church. Seems to me they might have let me have it since I made it so nearly. Begged my way. Started without a cent."

GIRL, UNCONSCIOUS FIFTY-THREE DAYS, PUZZLE TO SCIENCE

iate danger of death. She can go on living in this unconscious state indefinitely—even as long as a year, perhaps five years. As far as I know the case has set a record for the length of time a person has remained unconscious."

At the girl's bedside, day after day, sits her mother, Mrs. Emma Buschman, who rushed to Painesville from Massachusetts, when she learned that her daughter had been injured. The mother declined to comment upon her daughter's strange case.

When the girl, who was a student at the Lake Erie college here, was struck by the bus her skull was fractured and Dr. Claude Beck of Cleveland, one of the country's leading surgeons, was called into the case. He successfully removed a piece of bone that had been pressing down on the brain. The girl failed to revive, however.

Brain Cells Scattered

"Her brain cells are scattered," Dr. Marsh said. "The shock of the blow scattered and separated the multitude of tiny connections that make up the brain cells. The entire surface of the brain was injured. It is just as if the wires in a complicated switchboard had been suddenly ripped apart. It is a question as to how soon, if ever the damage can be repaired."

Dr. Marsh calls on miss Buschmann twice each day, in the morning and at night. She is fed each time he calls. She will not swallow any food so it has to be injected into her stomach by means of a tube. Liquid foods, consisting mostly of broths, milk and dextros, have been injected. The digestive organs have functioned properly. Her body functions go on normally, although she lies unconscious and inert. Her weight is about 120 pounds and she has lost only a few pounds since the accident occurred. All the injuries resulting from the accident have healed with the exception of the damage to the brain.

Pulse Is Normal

"Her pulse and temperature is practically normal," Dr. Marsh said. "The brain has no control over the action of the heart."

M. G. Goddard, superintendent of the hospital, who is also intensely interested in the case, said it has been proved in experiments with pigeons that the brain can be taken away and that the bird will continue to live. He declared that functions of breathing and the beating of the heart go on as usual.

Dr. Marsh said the unusual case of Miss Buschmann shows how long the body can carry on without the control of the mind. The body is not paralyzed. The girl occasionally moves her hand slightly and her feet occasionally. Now and then she turns her head. Her eyes frequently look directly at the doctor but show no sign of recognition. The action of the eyes is not voluntary. She yawns naturally at times. She never speaks, however, she does make an occasional noise with her mouth, demonstrating that the vocal chords are not paralyzed.

The greatest danger she now faces is pneumonia, rather than insufficient food. She requires only 1,500 calories a day as she is getting no exercise and is in good physical condition.

"This remarkable case has brought up the moral problem of whether or not it would be right to keep her alive," said Dr. Marsh, "but it is inconceivable that anything would be done other than what we are doing—keeping her alive and hoping for a favorable turn and a readjustment of her scrambled brain."

In the opinion of Dr. Beck, the patient may remain in her present condition for months. If the brain cells regain contact, use of the limbs may follow, he said. The patient is massaged daily to keep the blood in good circulation and the limbs are exercised by raising and lowering. Through all the treatment, the pretty girl student shows no signs that she is aware of what is transpiring. A fluttered eyelid or a soft moan is the only indication that life exists.

The heart-broken mother, watching over her daughter, clings to every vestige of hope. Every slight movement of the body of her unconscious child brings a gleam of hope to the eyes of the mother. For pure pathos the case is almost without parallel.

MODESTY IT'S OWN REWARD

WHAT becomes of those heroes who flash up from the horizon in a meteoric flare, hold the headlines for a spell, receive in varying degrees of modesty or egotism the acclaim of worshiping throngs and then sink out of sight? asks the Raleigh News and Observer. Who, for instance, carried the message to Garcia? What message? What Garcia?

Well, there was a message, a very important message. It was a message from President McKinley. It was dispatched to Garcia, an insurgent general somewhere in the jungles of Cuba during the war with Spain. It was delivered to Garcia by Colonel Andrew S. Rowan, whose exploit, chronicled in one of the most famous of the Elbert Hubbard booklets, has become a classic of faithful performance of duty.

The boss says: "Carry the message to Garcia!" He means to say: "Get this thing done and don't ask me any fool questions about how to do it!"

But he doesn't think of Rowan. You only think of Garcia. And yet, Colonel Rowan, who is even now living quietly in California writing his memoirs, says that his only regret about the exploit is that Garcia never received adequate recognition for cooperating with the United States.

Colonel Rowan must be a modest man indeed. At least Garcia has found much more recognition than Rowan. After all, that seems to be the price of modesty. The world professes sweet praise, but pays modesty small dividends.

NO HOPE! NO HOPE!

ANNOUNCEMENT that the Baldhead Club of America is to demonstrate the practicability of grafting hairs on bald pates by transferring small colonies of hairs from the "heads of beautiful and healthy maidens" sound encouraging at first thought. But there is a fly in the ointment; a thorn in the rose. Several flies, and several thorns, indeed.

First, like the old-time chef who gives us instructions for cooking a hare (no pun intended) you "must first catch your hare," the baldheaded man, or the operating surgeon, would first have to catch the "beautiful maiden," and where is the lovely young feminine thing—she of the flaxen curls, or golden locks, or dusky tresses—who would sacrifice her one best bet for a good match by transferring her chief adornment to grace the polished top of a vain old man? Approach the first one you meet, Mr. B. Head, and question her on the subject, if you doubt it.

But suppose, for the sake of argument, that "mother" went away for a little vacation some day and came home a few weeks later to find her earstwhile marble-topped hubby decorated in youthful fashion with a crop of golden locks that suspiciously resembled those of that "flip young thing," whose flirting propensities had been for months subject of domestic lectures.

No, no, men! In that direction lies trouble; deep, dark, soul-trying trouble, of a shade and degree beside which life with the afflictions of a bald head is as a summer-long holiday by a sunlit sea. Better the uncertainties and embarrassments of a wig than the youthful tresses of a giddy young damsel on the glistening dome of age.

There is only one way to fight the years, and that is by facing them with a smile. The man who covers his features with a broad, good-natured grin keeps folks so busy admiring it they forget to look higher than his nose. On the other hand, the chap who worries over the loss of his hair is apt to get himself into a state of mind where folks will just naturally refer to him as that "bald-headed old grouch," for nobody likes to look at a frown.

No matter what the mathematicians say, one side of the eternal triangle always seems to be greater than the sum of the other two.

The less intelligent an audience is, the more loudly it cheers the orator who says it is intelligent.

The Way OF THE World

By GROVE PATTERSON

A SMART PRINCE

The Prince of Wales shakes hands with a waiter in London. He is very democratic, for a member of a royal family and the next king of England. Being as he is he preserves peace and delays a change in the form of the British government. The king business is rather played out but as long as princes are regular fellows nothing will be done about it for awhile. Wales is smart.

CRAZY?

Heilner, field representative of the American Museum of Natural History, dives into tropical waters where there are sure to be sharks. He wants to prove his theory that sharks won't attack a man. Probably his friends say he's crazy. Fortunate for us we have a good crop of crazy men every generation to teach us new things.

Some of the most valuable crazy men are those who have taught the world that a lot of "impossible" things could be done. Fortunately there is always somebody just dumb enough not to know something is impossible.

WHY INSIST?

A party has been organized to go into the unknown interior of South America to look for the British explorer Col. P. H. Fawcett. Col. Fawcett disappeared in the jungle about three years ago. Not long ago reports came out of the interior that Col. Fawcett was living in a native village and had expressed his intention of living there the rest of his life. He likes it.

Civilization is a hard master. Or is it conventionality that is a hard master? We won't let people get away with things we don't do ourselves—not if we can help it. Perhaps Col. Fawcett is perfectly happy, perfectly at peace in his jungle village. Why drag him out?

WOMAN'S INFLUENCE

Dr. George A. Dorsey, who wrote "Why We Behave Like Human Beings," says the influence of women is 99 times as great as that of men. Women are the first teachers of children. In the primary grades children, up to the age of six, absorb practically all social training. Character is formed right there. Men are merely the result of the cooperation or resistance they offer to women's training.

Careless girls—flappers—given little to serious thinking, really ought to think very seriously about the responsibility they must some day bear. Women often make or unmake men—sometimes before the male human being is six and sometimes afterward.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 6:00. Sun rises tomorrow 6:22.

Always heard that peanuts grew on the roots of small bush-like plants, and that you had to dig them up. Must be some mistake, because you can see them most anywhere you go these days, and they're above ground, too.

Been wondering how in the world an apple could be called "Maiden's Blush". Must have been named several centuries ago, because it's a long time since we saw any of them blush.

How true it is that your boyhood ambitions often prove to be your life's work, although pretty far-fetched when first thought of. Just heard of a fellow who as a boy had ambitions to have police authority. And when called upon as a boy to prove his ability did so with bells on. Now he's an officer of the law.

MARCH 12 BABIES
New Orleans, La.,
March 5, 1928.

Jacob F. Rentz,
Manager The News
New Castle, Pa.

Dear Jake—You are to carry out my wishes in regard to March 12th babies as in former years. For each baby born in Lawrence county on my birthday, March 12, you are to present five dollars. Twins fifteen dollars, and if there are any triplets wire me and a suitable reward will be given.

The only conditions are that the kiddos must be born in Lawrence county next Monday, March 12, and in no other part of the world or in any previous years. Every year I get hundreds of letters and some from people a hundred years old, asking for the five because they were born some time on March 12. It's the next March 12 that will count. Proof of birth by doctor's certificate or other reliable information is the only other condition.

You will find enough money of mine around somewhere to pay the amounts, I hope, and if you need more, hock the piano in our living room at home.

Trusting that there will be far more babies on March 12 this year in Lawrence county than ever before, I remain,

Affectionately,
FRED L. RENTZ.

This city certainly should be well protected in the matter of fighting fires when it gets its new combination service truck. There will be one good feature about this piece of apparatus, and that is that it will be used to answer every fire alarm. It will assure plenty of men on the job every time.

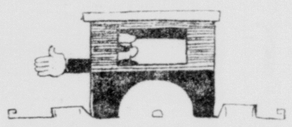

They say the clans are beginning to gather in preparation for the coming election, and that the fellows who have dared to announce for office are getting theirs, which means about everything but tar and feathers. Fortunately there's one thing about 90 per cent of the tales told at such times—they're not true, and they have been told before. All you need to do is to notice how well learned they are and by whom they are spoken.

Seems to have been a poor season for the coal operator, according to the the number that appear to be going into the hands of the receiver. Strange, too, because we haven't noticed any difference in the amount we used or the price we paid.

It's better to give than to receive, they say. But isn't it strange how a majority of us are always anxious to be on the receiving end. It must be because there are more at that end and most of us like company, no matter what we do or where we are.

From San Diego comes the report that the cost of sobering up Americans returning from Tijuana, the oasis in the Sahara of Lower California, also a part of Mexico, has become so great that San Diego county has been forced to turn the work over to the state of California. Can hardly believe it possible that there are Americans enough left who would go to Mexico just for a drink to make it so expensive as all that. If that's the case Mexico ought to be dry in a short time.

There are a heap of people in this world just like that dog owner in Chicago who went out walking with his six hundred dollar dog tied to a leash, and when he returned home he had a weary looking "plain dog" attached to the end of his leash. They start out with everything in the world in their favor and end up with little or nothing, just because it would have taken a little effort to make something of themselves.

On the completion of 30 years as sexton of the famous Old Brick Presbyterian church of Cold Spring, Cape May county, N. Y., Wilbert Wicks admitted to having dug 1,339 graves. We are sure that's one record that very few people will care to equal.

At Wigan, England, there is reported to be a sow which has farrowed three pigs each with an abnormal number of feet. There's one thing about an occurrence of this kind, there should be no shortage of pig's feet when they are butchered.

From Athens, Greece, we learn that the barber who last year tried to cut off the beard of the Archbishop of Athens in protest against the introduction of the Gregorian calendar has finally been acquitted by a jury. The jury must surely have been made of beardless men.

A New York state commission just found that idleness in the prisons of that state is the cause of breeding crime instead of preventing it. The fellow who is busy seldom has time to do anything of a criminal character.

Family life tends to destroy a child's individuality and independence, we are told by an eminent psychologist. Can't just agree with him, because the indicated cause of failure by the children today is due to a lack of, rather than too much, home life.

Poland is falling in line with regard to the improved methods employed in the baking of bread. Under a new law just passed bakers of that country are required to sift all flour and knead dough by machine. All of which shows that Poland is one of the most progressive countries in the world.

If he sounds like a Cadillac horn when he uses a handkerchief, you may assume that everybody in the community calls him dad.

The Balkans, we learn, are at the boiling point and that once more, as at the beginning of the World War, the least little thing may start another war in which they will all be involved. If the rest of the world could only be persuaded to allow them to fight it out without interfering, this might accidentally put a stop to the "Balkan" arguments.

Over in Germany they are just now engaged in the pleasant undertaking of unearthing many skeletons in a densely populated district of Germany, where they are excavating for a subway. They are believed to be the skeletons of men who took part in a battle fought in 1760 as a part of the Seven Years war. How much easier we find it here to up something real "tasty" in the past life of persons in the public eye. Skeletons of either type do not add to the pleasantness of life.

The chivalrous stranger on a London suburban car thought he was doing a woman on a car a favor when he complained to the railroad authorities concerning a man, who persisted in smoking his pipe in the car. You can imagine his surprise when he learned that it was the woman's husband about whom he complained. That's just about what you get every time, when you butt into the family affairs of the other fellow.

All hams and bacon are not smoked in the same way. Neither are all criminals caught in the same manner. Recently a large warehouse was robbed of a large quantity of bacon in the city of London. The only clue found was a wax match. Shortly afterwards a man walked into the police station smoking his pipe. He used wax matches to relight it. The robbery was eventually traced to him. It is not safe to use wax matches in stealing bacon.

Modern Sundays may seem "worldly", but it doesn't take all day Monday to recover from the daze of the flivver trip.

Liberty is a state of mind. Some men would be free in chains; some would be enslaved on a throne.

There is many a time that the son attempt's to steal his father's thunder in one way or another. The best thing along this line we've heard of is the son who passed canvas gloves among a group of men listening to an address by his father. When the remarks of the father were at a close, the applause was unanimous, but the noise was a minus quantity.

Americanism: Neglecting a cigarette lighter; growling because it doesn't work. Doing the same thing about government.

Mrs. Mary Ann Warner of Walton, England, has just died at the age of 101. It was said of her that she never journeyed more than five miles away from her birthplace. That's just the trouble with a lot of us today, we stick too close to home and never see what the other fellow is doing. No wonder that we make so little progress.

Austria has the problem of many highly educated persons and no work for them. America cannot be said to be suffering from that trouble. The reverse is nearer true. It does make one think of what would happen if every person had a fine education, especially along professional lines, and had no place to use it. It appears that there is sometimes the possibility of too much education, for it does not take an education to dig a ditch.

One Baby, One Mother.

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1928, by N. Y. American, Inc.)

Senator Wagner of New York, putting through the Senate a resolution ordering investigation of unemployment, makes this important statement:

"We may as well determine right here that we are going to wage relentless war until we abolish involuntary idleness as surely as we abolish involuntary servitude."

The state owes no man a living. But is does owe every man work if he is willing to work, and pay that will enable him to live decently.

Some Republicans taking the unemployment of others calmly say, "There is politics in Wagner's resolution." What of it? There was politics in the tariff that built our industries. There is politics in every public question. If Senator Wagner sticks to his fight and wins it, he will be remembered when many "Republican statesmen" are forgotten.

What is the finest epitaph you ever read? Which would you like to have and DESERVE?

The epitaph of the unknown French soldier under the Arc De Triomphe is the finest written recently. That of the great King of Persia beginning "I Am Cyrus, O. Man," is perhaps the most magnificent. That of Napoleon under the gilded dome of the Invalides, telling how the great general wished his dust to rest "among the French people, that I have loved so much" and of whom he killed so many, is high sounding.

One that any man might envy, is on the tomb of old Baron Von Stein, near the German rock from which he took his name. Part of it reads:

Humble before God, high-hearted before men, an enemy of untruth and of injustice.

"I have a desire to depart and to be with Christ."

PEDRO REYES, Mexican bandit supposed to have accumulated 100,000 pesos and killed many men, had his ideas about an epitaph. After a Mexican squad put him against a wall and shot him dead, there was found in his hand a piece of paper with this: "Here rests the bandit Pedro Reyes." That epitaph told all. Some epitaphs don't.

JACK DEMPSEY is through with fighting. His horse won the big race at Tia Juana, two days ago. And Dempsey says "Tunney can keep that title as long as he wants it. I am not going to fight any more. For the first time in my life I feel free to do as I like, and go where I please. I have nothing to worry me."

Happy Mr. Dempsey. How few college professors, school teachers, and clergymen are able to say "I have nothing to worry me."

Newspapers tell of a baby "dead 10 times." Ten times in its short five weeks of life the baby's heart stopped beating in a struggle against pleuro-pneumonia. Ten times it was revived and it probably will live. The doctors did wonders.

There is just a line about the mother. Still weak, following the baby's birth, she gave her blood in transfusion to save her baby's life. Her name is Mrs. G. E. Olmstead, and what she did ten million other mothers would do, gladly.

A United States court decides that under the old Jay treaty of 1794 Canadians can cross the border into the United States as often as they choose with no immigration restrictions.

Thus our Canadian neighbors can drink beer on Canadian territory, and earn dollars on United States territory. That will madden some 100 per cent Americans. But they also can cross the border to get beer. That may comfort them.

"Girl dies from alcoholism at drinking party." She was only 20. Surgeons said, "alcoholic poisoning." It is such a common thing under prohibition that you don't even ask the girl's name. Whisky killed her suddenly. It is killing thousands of others more slowly. Something ought to be done about bootleg whisky.

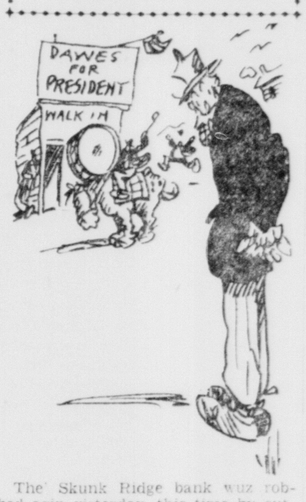

In Oregon some cattle were butchered and yellow spots on their teeth were found to be pure gold. They had never seen a dentist. The question is did they scrape their teeth against gold in their pasture, or do they represent the ingenious idea of some "realtor," anxious to sell a farm?

Well, I reckon in another month we'll be right in th' season o' garden makin', housecleanin' an' rickety ol' stepladder crashes!

THE LAST LEAF

About the last leaf has fallen from the noxious plant of human slavery. This institution was called by John Wesley "the sum of all villainies."

It has its roots deep in the past. The Egyptians made slaves of the Israelites and it was the custom of every nation in ancient times to make slaves of their victims or their prisoners.

We commonly think of ancient Greece as a Republic, but it was only a republic to a few free men superimposed upon a vast body of helots.

The Romans, also, had their slaves, and it was the custom of the Barbary pirates to enslave the captive Christians.

The United States went through a tremendous cataclysm, the fundamental cause of which was the existence of human slavery. Abraham Lincoln gained the title of the Great Emancipator by his decree freeing the slaves in this country.

History presents a new warfare between the human conscience and the institution of slavery. The gain has been slow, but conscience has won.

Now in Sierra Leone, Africa, all of the slaves are free. This occurred with the opening of the New Year. Nearly two hundred and fifty thousand domestic slaves were made the political equals of their masters.

This was largely due to Lady Simon, wife of Sir John Simon, a British statesman.

That many of the slaves are bewildered and do not know what to do with their freedom, but will go on serving their old masters, shows that emancipation or liberty does not come from the submerged masses up, but comes from the free classes downward.

It will naturally take a long while and it will require generations yet to come for a race that has been enslaved to accustom itself to liberty. That they were not prepared for liberty goes without saying, but the best preparation for freedom is freedom, just as the best cure for democracy is more democracy.

Slowly but surely this old world is climbing up in to the light. Those who stand upon the shore can hardly observe the process of the tides, but if you go away and come back after a few hours you can see that the level of the waters has changed. So in history a too close view of the present reveals so many evils that we do not think the world is progressing; but we only have to look over history as a whole to see how it advances.

Notice how civilization has abolished slavery, dueling, gladiatorial games, torture, and other evils. It is hard to resist the conclusion that, on the whole, the world is getting better.

Bible Thought For Today

PRAYER: Blessed be the Lord for ever more. Amen and Amen.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

ONE OF THE SEA DOGS.

Rear Admiral Ridley McLean, U. S. N. directs the manouvers of the Pacific Fleet of Submarines under his command from his flagship the U. S. S. "Holland." He has been under surgical care recently at the Pacific Naval Base Hospital in San Diego, but this has not prevented him from directing his forces, or caused him for a moment to forget his duty to the men under him.

There are a lot of the Nation's submarines on the Pacific Station and there is not a single method there available at the present time by which a submarine could be raised to the surface of the ocean, should one be sunk, out of control, in any manner. This was vividly called to Admiral McLean's attention by the Atlantic catastrophe and he, from his hospital bed, informed the Navy Department of the predicament on the Pacific. Several weeks passed and not getting satisfaction from Washington, he finally notified the Department that if nothing is going to be done about it at Headquarters, he is going to command some navy equipment on the Western Coast, including some ships which can be made over into strong sea going tugs, and be prepared for any emergency.

The doughty Admiral believes in being fore-armed. He also believes in athletics and the discipline connected therewith. He expects the crews, teams and individuals representing his Flagship in any Navy contest to be on their toes. A young married Lieutenant under his command is responsible for the Base Ball Team. The Team was scheduled to play the crack team of the Fleet one day after the admiral had returned to his Flagship. It was also the Lieutenant's turn to serve as Officer on the Deck. The Admiral, although but just recovering from the effects of the surgeon's knife and somewhat of an invalid, ordered his subordinate to take the Team out and win. "I will be Officer of the Deck today. Your wife will stay here and keep me company." The Lieutenant and others, men as well as officers, could hardly credit their ears, but orders are orders.

It seems that the Lieutenant is an electrical genius, having since his graduation at Annapolis been sent by the government to Harvard University. He there attained his M. A. Degree in Electrical Science. He is the busiest man in the Fleet. His wife has remarked to her friends that the Admiral worked her husband without mercy,—not only was he expected to be the Electrical expert and Baseball Manager, but had to put in the same hours on Deck as the others. The Admiral had heard this.

The Officer of the Deck has no easy job and toward the end of the afternoon, after a mighty busy day, McLean said to the wife: "Condemn it all! but I am dashed tired. Jack is a wonder. I am going to see if we can't send him back to Harvard for a Ph. D. That's what he wants more than anything else."

A little thing, maybe, but it is of that sort of stuff winning Commanders are made.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE SON

I am the son of one who dreamed.
And toiled for me and planned and schemed.

But I was such a youngster then
And couldn't read the eyes of men.

I only know he smiled on me
And talked of times that were to be.

He'd feel my muscles, leg and arm
As if for him they held a charm

And I would laugh and romp and tease
And ride away upon his knees.

I could not read the thoughts which he
So bravely tried to hide from me.

Nor grasp the weight of all he told,
For I was only twelve years old.

But now I understand and know
I was his hope of long ago.

Those eyes of his looked far to see
The grown-up man that I should be.

That counseling I laughed to hear
Comes back today with meaning clear.

And now I wonder can it be
That I'm the man he longed to see.

C. B. D. CHARLES B. DRISCOLL

IN NEW YORK.

At 40, Alice Foote McDougall had thirty-eight dollars and three little children. She hadn't very good health. She had no business training and never had worked for a living. She didn't know stenography. She didn't know bookkeeping. She didn't know how to wait table. She knew human nature and she had some culture that poverty and the buffetings of fate had not impaired.

She started a coffee store. She got her space for twenty dollars a month but it wasn't much of a room and she had only a packing box for a desk and another packing box for a chair.

Mrs. McDougall got a friend to underwrite her first purchase of five hundred dollars' worth of coffee. She also got the use of borrowed stenographers while she dictated letters to her friends asking them to by coffee of her.

That wasn't a very encouraging start if you think it over. The little coffee store was in Front street, New York. It had plenty of competition. And Mrs. McDougall had before her all the time the nightmare of the deputy sheriff who had brought her a dispossess notice at her home a short time before. She had to make the business go!

And she did. Mrs. McDougall is one of the richest business women in the world today. And it is only twenty years since she started that little coffee store in Front street.

Today Mrs. McDougall's coffee houses are swank restaurants with imported pottery for the service and for sale on tables as you leave. There are candles on the tables for light and each of the restaurants has its distinctive atmosphere of luxury and refinement. Oh, you can pay a neat price for a meal or a bit of pottery, if you're minded to spend your money for Alice McDougall atmosphere!

Mrs. McDougall tells all about how she did it and does it now in her new book "Alice Foote McDougall; the Autobiography of a Business Woman." The book is something of an advertisement and something of a human document. Not literary but worth reading for the inspiration there is in it.

Supreme Court Justice Holmes Stays At Work On His 87th Birthday

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes of the United States supreme court today greeted the advent of his 87th birthday with no hint of retirement.

The day dawned brightly for the venerable soldier, lawyer, writer, and jurist, for it brought to his door messages from all parts of the world, all breathing respect for his distinguished services of the past and good wishes for the future.

A worker throughout his long and active career, he labored today as usual with the stilted verbiage of the briefs of hopeful lawyers and delved into the musty precedents which are the guideposts of the nation's highest court.

In one respect, perhaps, the day was not as pleasant as others. For during the past week a cautious family physician has kept him indoors to shake off a slight cold which descended on the crest of a raw, March wind.

Even a physician's orders, however, have not kept him idle. In the office he maintains in an old-fashioned red brick house a few doors removed from the noise of a busy street he has kept up with his work. One of the two opinions read only four days ago from the bench of the court in the capitol was prepared by him.

"Mine is just an old story told eighty-six times and this year for the eighty-seventh time," was the message sent by Justice Holmes to one who appeared more concerned than he over his birthday.

Congress provided that justices could retire at seventy, on two-thirds pay. Justice Holmes is said to have told a friend that "I should die if I quit work." No suggestion that he retire has ever come from his associates on the bench, it is said, because he is one of the court's hardest workers, as well as one of its most brilliant minds.

Often referred to as a great liberal, Justice Holmes has been noted for his humane interpretations of the constitution and the law.

To make life livable for its people is a great duty of the state, he said. He recognizes all government as a growth, with public opinion as the supreme arbiter. In a famous dissenting opinion in the New York ticket speculators case, delivered in his 86th year, he said:

"I think the proper course is to recognize that a state legislature can do whatever it sees fit to do unless it is restrained by some express prohibition in the constitution of the United States or of the state.

"The truth seems to me to be that, subject to compensation when compensation is due, the legislatures may forbid or restrict any business when it has a sufficient force of public opinion behind it.

Lotteries were thought useful adjuncts of the state a century or so ago; now they are believed to be immoral and they have been stopped. Wine has been thought good for man from the time of the apostoles until recent years. But when public opinion changed it did not need the eighteenth amendment, notwithstanding the fourteenth, to enable a state to say that the business should end."

Born in Boston, Mass., March 8, 1841, the son of the famous New England poet, Justice Holmes graduated from Harvard at 20. Twice wounded, he reached the grade of captain in the civil war. He was named to his present post on Dec. 8, 1902, by President Roosevelt.

It's The Same Old Love

By IDAH McGLONE GIBSON

One would think if one read the newspapers and magazines that men and women were more unhappy now than ever before in their married lives. Yet, I doubt if women are as miserable now as their feminine forebears were.

Today women are articulate animals. They have found out they have a voice which can be used at any time and place about any thing.

They have found out that it is not only the husband's prerogative to be the fault finder in chief in every family. They have found out that it is not necessary for them to suppress all their hurts, all their criticisms, all their bitter thoughts. They have found out that this does not, in the language of the day, get them anywhere.

It is true perhaps that they are making the most of their new found power of speech and their voices are raised in the market place as well as in the seclusion of their own homes.

Our great-grandmothers always spoke of their husbands with reverence and addressed them as Mr. ——. They were taught to look up to them, to regard their words as law, and most of them worked and acted like slaves. They were a man's greatest possession—but only a possession nevertheless.

Today a woman insists that no man is her superior, just as a man thinks it contemptible to be called feminine.

We are in the great struggle between the sexes for supremacy and until they both find out that never again can either be the possessor of the other, there will always be friction and unrest.

This will logically come after marriage, for cunning mother nature has insisted that she has only one job to do, and she has made the eyes, the ears, the nerves, organs of sense, her allies, rather than reason.

After a wife has been married to a man a decade, she is apt to see he is fat and bald and unprepossessing. She hears him give opinions that are only his expressions of selfishness, jealousy and greed. The only excuse, perhaps, for her not getting up and telling him and the rest of the world about it is that she is sharp-tongued, quick-tempered, given to self-pity and quite as mis-shaped both in mind and body as he.

Neither one gives all the little digs that turn over under the skin and fester and hurt until it seems impossible to bear them.

A friend of mine summed it up for me the other day, saying: "I know if I had looked ahead for the last ten years, I would never have married, but thank God I did not have that forward look; for

Taking the years together, my dear,
There isn't more night than day."

THREE MINISTERS OF INDIANA TELL OF KONJOLA WORK

REV. J. L. SHERRILL

The Konjola Man, who is now at the Love and Megown drug store, 204 East Washington St., New Castle, where he is daily explaining this celebrated medicine to crowds of New Castle people, has previously visited many of the larger cities of the Central States, where prominent men and women in all walks of life indorsed this remarkable compound.

In the city of Terre Haute, Ind., three ministers made public recommendations of Konjola after this medicine has ended their own health troubles. Rev. Harrison Jeffers of 118 Sycamore St., Rev. Dan Worley of West Terre Haute and Rev. J. L. Sherrill, a resident of North Terre Haute for over 30 years, holding a Baptist Missionary pastorate of that city, all have strongly written their approval of the work of Konjola. The Rev. Sherrill gave a detailed report about his case and also offered his photograph for publication.

"This new compound has ended every form of stomach trouble I had been suffering for years," read's Rev. Sherrill's statement, "and I eagerly indorse such a medicine, after it has restored my health when countless treatments and other remedies failed.

"My trouble started with indigestion, and in recent years I became worse. Everything I ate would cause a heavy, bloated feeling, terrific cramps and a sour, acidy, gassy condition in my stomach. Many times I had smothering spells and could hardly get my breath. The gas would crowd around my heart, acusing it to palpitate wildly, and I had even come to the place where I though I had heart trouble. For several nights at a time I barely closed an eye, because I was so restless and nervous that sleep was impossible.

"Rev. Worley of West Terre Haute was the first to tell me about Konjola, as he knew the disorders I suffered for years. This medicine had effect almost at once, and before one week was up I was able to eat anything I wanted. Now my digestion is perfect. The cramps, bloating spells and acid risings are all gone and the other miseries are completely ended. My whole system is improved in every way, and I don't have the smothering spells or trouble with my heart.

"I will further state that, thru gratefulness, I have spoken to my congregation regarding Konjola and the benefits of this medicine, because I am thankful enough to pass the good word along. I shall be glad to tell any suffering person my experience, and in closing want to say, that my post office address is Box 48, North Terre Haute, Ind."

From one small section of Indiana, this celebrated medicine was publicly indorsed by 483 men and women, including nurses, public officials, a prominent author, ministers and people in all walks of life. Konjola is not only for stomach trouble, but is equally beneficial in cases of liver, kidney and bowel disorders and rheumatic and neuritis troubles.

The Konjola Man is at the Love & Megown drug store, 204 East Washington St., New Castle, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.

Don't dope YOUR Cough

IT is not wise to use remedies which depend upon "dope" such as narcotics, chloroform, cannabis or tar products. They may stop your cough temporarily by numbing the tissues, as most cough mixtures do, but this is not enough.

The inflamed air passages must be soothed naturally, the germ-laden mucus loosened and expelled in order to effect a lasting recovery.

Women are Learning the Right Way

Pimples on the face and other parts of the body are warnings from within. Sometimes they foretell eczema, boils and other skin disorders that burn like flames of fire.

IF you are unfortunate in having skin blemishes, pimples, boils, eczema, you owe it to yourself and friends to remove the cause. Nature will then provide the complexion which is so much desired.

Thousands have been enabled to free themselves of unsightly blemishes and painful skin annoyances by taking a course of S.S.S.

You owe it to yourself to try S.S.S. It helps Nature build up red corpuscles. It improves the processes by which the blood is nourished.

Red blood cells are Nature's way for building and sustaining the body.

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there can be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful healthy women.

You know a clear skin comes from within. Correct the cause—through the blood—and pimples, boils, eczema and that sallow complexion will disappear.

S.S.S. is Nature's own tonic for restoring the appetite—building strength—and clearing the body of so-called skin troubles.

"I was troubled with pimples and blackheads. I took a course of S.S.S. It cleared my face and back. I think S.S.S. is wonderful. I have told many friends about S.S.S., and they are getting as much benefit as I did." Miss Ruth Gahm, 1134 Elden Ave., Los Angeles, Calif.

PETER'S ADVENTURES in ANIMAL LAND

BY MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

THE MASTER SINGER'S LAST SONG

Poor Song Sparrow couldn't go on with his story. He lay gasping for breath.

Peter was in despair.

"Surely I can do something to help you," cried he. "You are suffering. Isn't there something would ease your pain?"

"Water, water!" Song Sparrow looked pleadingly at the boy. Peter without hesitating a moment ran down to the brook. Luckily, just as the bird had said, the sun was melting the frozen covering swiftly so it was not long before he was back by the side of the wounded flier, his thick cap full of melting ice. Song Sparrow drank long and eagerly, and for a short while he seemed so much brighter that Peter was sure the wounded bird was going to get well.

"Thanks, Boy," chirped Song Sparrow, gratefully. "There is nothing like a good drink of fresh water, is there? That is one thing about us Sparrows. It never took much to make us happy. A good dinner of weed seeds, a draught of clear cold water, a bath in the pool and a nice warm spot in which to sit and sun oneself and a Sparrow is ready to sing his sweetest. If I do say it myself there is no other bird that can make more melody than can I" Then Song Sparrow remembered what had happened. His little head drooped.

"I mean that I could," whispered he sorrowfully. "I forgot for a moment that dreadful hole in my side. Never more shall I give a morning concert; never again shall I carry straws for my love to weave a nest for our babies; I remember that my wife was particularly fond of long horse hairs, she thought that they made such a strong foundation and I knew just the spot to find the best ones. Now some other bird will have all the fun of choosing the black ones or the brown ones from the stable fence.

"And such a nest as my love would build—and in such a lovely spot—in some flowering bush where the babies could be brought up among the blossoms—just low enough so that there was not much danger if they should fall from the nest and always in the cool shade and high enough so that prying eyes could not find them.

"Never again shall I waken the kind Two-Legs with my twittering morning tune or please them with my glorious noon-day song. I am dying! But before I say goodby to the beautiful world I shall sing once more.

Before Peter could prevent him the master singer of the birds struggled to his feet, wounded though he was, threw back his head and poured forth from his throat a few notes of wondrous beauty. "Fitz, Fitz, Fitz, We-sir, Sir-wee, Witz witz!" Short and low at first, his voice rose higher and more clear until on the last bell-like note the brave little songster sank back to the ground, never to sing again.

Very sadly Peter set about making a little bed in the snow where his feathered friend of the brave heart should lie safe and warm. Carefully the boy spread over the bird a soft coverlet of snow so that no rough wind should disturb his resting place. Then, lonely and sad at heart, Peter continued on his way.

FARM FACTS

TIMELY REMINDERS From The Pennsylvania State College

Prepare Dobbin for Work—In preparation for the arduous spring work, give the farm horse plenty of exercise. More attention should be given to grooming now than was considered necessary during winter in order to remove the excess of dirt and hair. Trim the feet if irregular, and in the case of brittle hoofs put on a plate to prevent breaking of the side walls.

Choose Good Soil for Potatoes—Plant potatoes this spring on well-drained soil of good fertility. An open soil, such as a shaley or gravelly loam, is preferable to a heavy clay soil and produces cleaner potatoes of better shape and usually of better quality. Plenty of organic matter is highly desirable because it helps hold moisture and on the heavier soils has a desirable loosening effect.

Clean up Corn Remnants—In corn borer infested areas all corn stalks or corn remnants of the 1927 crop in the field, in the barnyard, or elsewhere about the farm, unless ensiled, should be destroyed by burning, plowing under, or finely shredding, say State College entomologists.

Test Seed Before Planting—Make a germination test of all seed to be used and then plant only that which is good. Successful farmers do not plant poor seed.

Overhaul Garden Tools—Good tools and equipment may mean the difference between a good, clean, well-cultivated garden and one full of weeds. A little time spent now in overhauling garden tools will bring ample payment during the spring and summer.

Hulme's Scouts To Put On Program At Scout Circus

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, March 8.—Following the meeting of the local Boy Scout troop last night, 20 of the members practiced the stunt which they are to give in the Scout Circus to be held in New Castle March 23. The stunt of the local troop will consist in a minute demonstration of life-saving. The boys are being coached by Scoutmaster Jack Hulme.

A new candidate for the troop, Barney Moon, was also admitted at the meeting, and an enlightening talk on preparedness was given by Jack Hulme. Six scouts were picked to attend the Scout Court of Honor in New Castle this Monday. These scouts are: Howard Lee, Gailey Sharp, Thomas Rogers, Dick Davis, Hans Holmes, and Charles Criss.

Having commendably handled the record crowd that attended the recent Westminster-Duquesne basketball game here, the scouts will again usher at the Westminster-Grove City game which is to be played Saturday night.

In Traveling 25,000 Miles in Less Than 23,000 Minutes The Commander Demonstrates Studebaker Speed and Stamina

TO the ear, only the swish of the wind; to the eye, only a speeding flash . . . as three stock Studebaker Commanders hurtle through space at the Atlantic City Speedway to travel 25,000 miles in less than that number of minutes.

But within each powerful motor, a fusillade of explosions . . . 6830 per minute . . . over 156 million during the run. Pistons plunged up and down with lightning rapidity—more than 104 million strokes. Valves, red-hot, opening and closing 1,100 times each minute . . . more than 26 million times during the 25,000 miles. And all this in a raging inferno of flaming gases!

Never had a motor been called upon to stand such an ordeal Never had man or machine traveled so far so fast.

Stock Models—Certified by A. A. A.

And these were not cars specially built for prodigious feats of speed, but strictly stock, fully-equipped Studebaker Commanders alike in every detail to those driven by owners all over the country. The run was made under the supervision of American Automobile Association officials. After the finish, they tore down each car, examined it minutely and certified each to be a strictly stock model.

For one car to maintain such speed for sixteen days and nights would be a profound tribute to the engineering genius behind it. But, for three Commanders each to travel 25,000 miles at better than a mile-a-minute, proves beyond all question that The Commander is the World's Champion Car!

To you, the fact that The Commander holds all the highest official endurance and speed records for fully equipped stock cars, regardless of power or price, is highly significant. Not only can The Commander travel at high sustained speed, but it can stand the hardest driving and still retain its youth for thousands and thousands of miles. Only engineering genius, combined with the finest materials and workmanship, could produce a car of such endurance.

Drive The Commander today and experience the thrill of the lithe, untiring power that made it the World's Champion Car. Just telephone and say when and where.

Soviet Gold Purchase Banned By Mellon, Not To Lower Trade Bars

Five Million In Gold Will Likely Be Shipped Back To England

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Another subtle effort of the Russian Soviet to obtain at least implied commercial recognition from the United States has been checkmated.

This view was taken by official Washington today after a close scrutiny of the facts surrounding the refusal of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon to purchase, $5,000,000 in Soviet gold, on behalf of the government.

While the Treasury department simply said the gold could not be assayed by the mint because it was not presented by owners and that the Soviet could establish no title, it was learned that even more important reasons were back of the continuation of the ban established in 1920.

The gold was imported for the Soviet State bank and held in the vaults of the Chase National bank and the Equitable Trust company of New York, pending negotiations. It probably will be shipped back to England, changed into pounds which will be converted into dollar credit.

If this government had purchased the Russian gold the Soviet immediately would have "ballyhooed" to the world that it was doing business directly with the U. S. government, officials explained.

Such a statement, backed up with America's purchase of the gold, would have been a tremendous asset to the Soviet in other markets.

"There was no other possible purpose for shipping the gold to the United States," one official told the International News Service. "The gold might have been sold for pounds in London, and the pounds converted into dollars at a neat profit, owing to the difference in exchange rates.

"As it was there were heavy transportation charges on the gold in addition to the loss of many thousands of dollars in interest while it was idle. The procedure followed by the Soviet was clever but this country did not fall into the trap."

Russia never has settled its war debt to the United States, the total with accrued interest now represting nearly $300,000,000. The debt, originally $192,000,000 has been increasing at the rate of about $12,000,000 annually, a five per cent rate applying to all unfunded war obligations. The old Czarist government was advanced $187,729,000 under the liberty loan acts and incurred additional obligations to United States by reason of purchase of war supplies and advances through the grain corporation for relief.

Continental Bonds Traced To Chest Of Republican Party

Bonds Given Wheat King In Payment For Subscription Revealed Trading Bonds

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 8.—A torturous trail, followed by the senate public lands committee today revealed that bonds of the mysterious Continental Trading company were given Will H. Hays by Harry F. Sinclair and subsequently distributed in Chicago in return for cash contributions to the Republican national committee.

This was proven when James A. Patten, Chicago wheat king, testified he was given $25,000 in Liberty bonds by Fred W. Upham, Republican treasurer, in return for a $25,000 cash contribution to the Republican deficit of the 1920 campaign.

Twenty of the 25 thousand dollar bonds, given Patten by Upham, were identified as bonds originally sold to the Continental Trading company.

Roumanian Girl Is Given Permit To Make Visit Here

By GEORGE H. MANNING
(Washington Correspondent of The News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 8.—The Bureau of Immigration, Department of Labor, has issued an order under which Miss Anna Hanse, a young Roumanian girl, will be permitted to visit her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Licietsch, 8 East Reynolds street, New Castle.

Miss Hanse is now residing at Bridgewater, Ontario. On February 1, she decided to visit her uncle and aunt in New Castle and arrange to spend about six months attending school in this country.

When she arrived at Buffalo, immigration officials denied her admittance to this country.

The Lisietsch's then took the matter up with Congressman J. Howard Swick of Beaver Falls, who appealed the case to the Board of Review.

He has been notified that the Board has acted favorably on the case and Miss Hanse will be permitted to spend six months with her New Castle relatives.

IMPROVE NAVY'S MARKMANSHIP

Increase in efficiency in the gunnery of the U. S. navy during the past two years has been largely attributed to these two men shown for the first time together on the deck of the U. S. S. California on the Pacific. They are Captain Claude C. Bloch, left, who was chief of the bureau of ordnance at Washington and now commander of the California, and Commander Henry K. Hewitt, right, gunnery officer of the battle fleet. Co-ordination between the two brought results.

EUROPE HOPES NEW GASOLINE IS SAFETY FUEL

By J. C. OESTEICHER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, March 8.—Aviation and motor circles throughout Europe are greatly interested in a new type of gasoline, invented and perfected in France, which is supposed to be almost entirely non-combustible.

Experiments have shown that it is impossible to set fire to the liquid with a naked flame, nor does it ignite when it is spattered upon a red-hot metal surface. It is conceded that the discovery will have a tremendous effect in reducing the danger of fire both in aviation and in motoring, and the British Air Ministry is taking immediate steps to obtain full details with a view to ascertaining the possibilities of its use on the Royal Air Force.

French Discovery

The fuel is the discovery of M. Ferrier, an official of a French Government Department, who immediately handed over his patents to the French Admiralty. It was tried in French planes on flights of considerable distance, and found to be fully as useful as ordinary gasoline, with none of the latter's hazards.

Motor experts in London have experimented with the new gasoline and found that when a match was applied to the liquid, it was immediately extinguished. It was found that blotting paper soaked in the paper would burn, but it did not flare up with explosive violence, as ordinary gasoline does.

The new "safety fuel" as it is called is causing something of a sensation.

Increases Safety

Aeronautical experts point out that one of the greatest hazards of flying is the danger of fire, either in mid-air or in the case of a crash, and if the new gasoline lives up to its promises, this danger would be practically eliminated. A machine using this fuel might crash, the tanks might burst, and the fuel pour all over the hot engine and exhaust pipes without there being any risk of fire.

It is intimated that the British Government may attempt to use the new fuel in the engines of the giant dirigible R 100.

Palestine In Fight On Malaria Where New Settlers Live

(International News Service)

JERUSALEM, March 8 — A new principle in agricultural colonization has been established by the Zionist Organization in enforcing the rule that first the land must be drained and made free of malaria before cultivators are allowed to settle on it. This is the statement regarding Palestine in the general report of the Malarial Commission of the League of Nations. In describing the anti-malarial measures followed in Palestine, the Commission reports:

"The conditions in the rural districts are very interesting, especially in the Jewish colonies. While in other countries the cry is "Colonization means assainissement" here they work on the principle "first assainssement then colonization." In the newly purchased land the small water courses which only contain running water in winter and are dried up in summer are eliminated by sub-soil drainage, all open breeding places destroyed or petrolised and the irrigation canals regulated or put in order. The colonists are not allowed to settle until this is done."

These works are carried out by the Jewish National Fund, the land purchasing arm of the Zionist Organization which also drains and irrigates and otherwise ameliorates the land before settlers are put on it.

World Suffers From Preventable Illness Says Dr. Wheatley

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, March 8.—"The world suffers from an enormous amount of preventable illness, particulary of the gastro-intestinal system; our teeth are a disgrace, and healthy old age is comparatively rare."

This scathing indictment of the world's health was delivered by Dr. James Wheatley, President of the British Society of Medical Officers of Health, in his annual address to that body here. He urged the importance of having the best means of measuring health progress, remarking that hitherto the only means available of estimating progress had been death rates.

"I think it is incontestable," he declared, "that nothwithstanding the decreasing death rate, our average physical development is poor. The physique of the people is not improving commensurately with the decreases in the death rates.

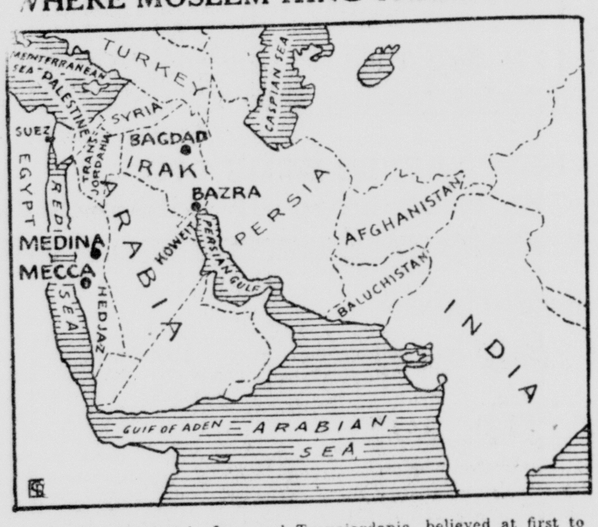

"I would urge well-devised tests of physical fitness, including measurements carried on up to adult life, perhaps at continuation schools and universities, as the best guide of all to physical progress.

"It is the paramount duty of the world to push research to its utmost limit and see that people have a sound knowledge of health. It is also the duty of the world to afford facilities and protection for living a healthy life.

"The greatest defect in our health schemes is that we are not in any way in touch with the young adult. Continuation schools, with adequate health teaching, good physical training, and with suitable playing fields, could go far to remedy this defect."

Dr. Wheatly advocated open-air sea, river and sun bathing as another means of reaching the health Utopia.

WHERE MOSLEM KING THREATENS

Frontier fighting in Iraq and Transjordania, believed at first to have been the work of local Arabian rulers, is now reported to be backed by Ibn Saud, king of the Hedjaz, whom dispatches indicate as having declared war on Great Britain. With 20,000 tribesmen reported marching on Transjordania and Iraq, Great Britain has only one battalion of British and one battalion of Indian troops at Iraq and a few companies in Palestine for defense. Additional troops would have to be transported by rail from Egypt to Palestine and thence by motor to Mesopotamia.

Theatre Angel In London Runs Gambler's Risk

(International News Service)

LONDON, March 8.—One who produces or finances a theatrical production in London runs the same risk of losing his money as though he had placed it on the "ponies."

This is the opinion of dramatic and musical comedy producers, who state that there is nearly $5,000,000 lost annually on the staging of new plays in London.

It is estimated that $25,000,000 is spent every twelve months for the production of dramas, comedies and musical shows. Figures show that the English public only spends $20,000,000 for the pleasure, or otherwise, of selling these shows! Who stands the loss?

Many Failures

When you ask this question your only reply is a look of disgust.

During the past year there has been an almost uprecedented number of failures, but the greatest disaster was the musical comedy entitled "The Girl from Cook's."

Before the curtain had been rung up for the opening night of this show, it had cost $50,000. When the curtain was rung down for the final performance, it had lost just twice that figure.

For every week that it played there was an average loss of $100,000.

Rentals are responsible for the majority of failures. The minimum rent for a second-rate theatre in London is $1,000 dollars per week. As a result of this, managers declare that if the gross takings fall below a certain figure for two weeks in succession, regardless of how promising the play is, it must end.

Cochran Planys Safe

A remarkable instance of this was shown here recently when C. B. Cochran, the "Tex Rickard" of England, startled the theatrical world of London by announcing that his musical comedy, "One Dam Thing After Another," was closing within two weeks. This show was the most successful show in London during 1927. It played to a record house for over 300 performances, and was still "going strong," at the time of the producer's announcement.

Cochran merely explained that one week he noticed a slight falling off in attendance. He refused to say that the show had lost anything. And though it played to a crowded house at every performance thereafter, it ended on the date he first set.

Cathedral Organ Selections Will Be On Program

Accompanist For Richard Crooks To Play Number Of Selections

At the concert given by the renowned tenor, Richard Crooks, in the Scottish Rite auditorium Wednesday, the 2,500 students who were present got a pleasant surprise.

It happens that Mr. Crooks is using Earl Mitchell as his accompanist here.

Mr. Mitchell has acted as accompanist for Florence Easton, Margaret Matzenauer, Paul Althouse, Hans Kindler, Jeannette Vreeland and many other great artists, but in addition to being a nationally known accompanist he is an internationally known organist and is admired in New Castle for his fine work as organist at the Shadyside Presbyterian church in Pittsburgh and is heard over the air every Sunday evening at 5:45 o'clock.

When Mr. Mitchell arrived with Mr. Crooks yesterday he consented to give the students a chance to hear the great organ in the Scottish Rite Cathedral. Herbert Peairs, manager of the Scottish Rite building, led him to the console and Mr. Mitchell, though he had had no chance to get acquainted with the Scottish Rite organ, played the "Pilgrim Song of Hope", by Battiste, in a most thrilling manner.

Although it is not on the program, Mr. Mitchell has consented to give a short group of numbers on the organ at the concert tonight. In addition, through the courtesy of Mr. Peairs, Mr. Crooks will use organ accompaniment for two numbers, "Iris", by Mascagni, and aria from the "Pearl Fishers", by Bizet. The concert tonight promises to be one of the musical events par-excellence of the season.

PLEASANT RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Shoulders droop under weight of years. Young, yet beauty has fled. Cheeks are sallow and drawn. Unsightly pimples. Keep your system clean and you keep the beauty of youth. Its energy. Its irresistible charm. Then life is not a failure.

Clogged bowels and inactive liver cause poisons to seep through the system. Health vanishes and with it beauty and energy. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets will save you from this dark hour. For 20 years they have been prescribed in place of calomel to men and women seeking health and freedom from constipation. They act easily and smoothly. No dangerous griping. Take nightly before retiring. Results will amaze you.

Thousands of men and women would never be without Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. Know them by their olive color. 15c, 30, 60c.

Rev. C. G. Farr To Speak This Evening In Epworth Church

Rev. C. G. Farr, D. D., pastor of the First Methodist church of Sharon and former pastor of the Epworth M. E. church of this city, will preach this evening at the special evangelistic services in Epworth church.

The services, which opened Monday evening, are growing in interest and attendance. A booster club comprised of over 200 children from 6 to 14 years has been organized by the musical director, H. E. Welch. The members of this club meet every afternoon after school for practice in preparation for the meeting on Friday evening at which time they will sing.

The pastor, Dr. S. L. Maxwell, preached a very soul searching sermon Wednesday evening.

BESSEMER NEWS

TREASURE HUNT.

Mysterious news was disclosed by the Be-Hi- Record last Monday. An old map had been found which revealed the fact that a bit of treasure had been hidden up along the Hickory Creek at the northwest corner of town.

A treasure hunt had been arranged and it was to start from the center of town at 4 o'clock. The old map had been posted on the town bulletin board and a card printed in the Be-Hi which explained the writing.

At 4 o'clock there was a mob around the old map trying to decipher the directions. One by one they finished the puzzle and started off at a great rate in the direction of the unknown mystery.

The tree was found and on it the skull. Interest grew keen and searchers were everywhere and turning over every stick and stone. Finally Mike Slapnichar crawled up inside the hollow tree and accidentally bumped into a box. The box came tumbling down and was carried back to the school. In the security of the building it was opened and within the tin chest was discovered a box of candy.

CHAPEL.

Among the chapel programs which stand out throughout the years we place the one given last Thursday. Mr. Allen had charge of the program.

The first part of the hour was given over to an entertainment entitled "Two Black Crows" which had been prepared by John Radan and Felix Coluici.

The majority of the hour was taken up by Rev. Walter McClure who gave an excellent talk on the subject "The Sacrifice Hit."

CHURCH MEETINGS.

The church meetings held at the Presbyterian church during the week of February 26 were very successful. Rev. Walter McClure of New Castle was the speaker and was greatly appreciated by all who heard him.

KINDERGARTEN.

Following the precedent started last year the Bessemer kindergarten has again been opened to serve Bessemer children from the age of 4 to 6. Sixteen children came the opening day last Monday, but on the second day 35 bright faces and eager voices were lifted in the "Good Morning" song.

Miss Chester of Sharon has been chosen to act as instructor and guide.

The purpose of this kindergarten work is to give the child a good foundation for his regular school classes. He is taught discipline and co-operation.

At the present time in the Bessemer public kindergarden the children are being started on very simple projects. They are doing crayon work and picture cutting. They are also being taught interesting ,instructive games and are living a happy life from 9 a. m. until 11:30. Kindergarden is not open in the afternoon.

BOY SCOUTS.

There has been some discussion as to the advisability of renewing the Boy Scout organization in Bessemer. For several years the club has been without a leader and has naturally been non-progressive. Along with the coming of spring comes the desire for long hikes, cooking out of doors and camping. It altogether is likely that the organization could easily be reorganized.

LYCEUM SERIES.

This year's Lyceum course has been quite successful and the numbers have been well accepted by the audiences. This week plans are being made for another good Lyceum series for next year.

Numerous numbers are named and described to the Lyceum committee and from these are selected the numbers which seem most suitable to Bessemer's needs.

UNION GAME.

With the Wilmington game safely tucked away on the right side of the ledger the local quintet will enter the Union game determined to make it the ninth straight victory in the league.

The locals seem to be improving with every game as was shown by the impressive victory over the New Wilmington High school five on the Wilmington floor.

Union High is also showing improvement and since Bessemer holds a 40-10 victory over them they will do their best to win.

EXAMINATIONS.

The pupils and teachers of Bessemer High school are just about to finish another six weeks of hard work. The completion of this work is the six weeks exams which are being given on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week.

ATTEND BAUQUET.

One of the faculty members, Mr. Lukkarila attended a banquet at the Faculty club of the University of Pittsburgh on Saturday evening, March 3.

This was held in honor of Burton E. Nelson, president of Staut Institute who was enroute to Wisconsin after attending the convention at Boston.

FACULTY MEMBERS ILL.

Wendell McConnell and Joseph Martin, faculty members of Bessemer high school were unable to teach their classes early in the week because of illness.

Rev. J. L. Petrie To Preach Friday At City Mission

This evening the regular Thursday evening Bible class study will be held at the City Mission, 17 South Mercer street, with Frank Geiger teaching. Tomorrow evening, Friday, Rev. J. L. Petrie, pastor of the Grace M. E. church, will bring a timely message at the mission. Saturday evening the usual praise and testimony service will be held. Everyone who wishes to attend is invited to these services which begin at 7:30 each evening.

The girls Sunday school class taught by Mrs. E. J. Berquist will meet for a party at the mission on Friday evening after school. Saturday afternoon the girls' sewing school classes will be held from 2 to 4 o'clock in charge of Mrs. E. J. Berquist.

Evangelist Speaks About Repentance

Able Message By Evangelist Walker Wednesday Evening In Central Church

The great gospel campaign being conducted by Evangelist Walker at the Central Christian church is growing by leaps and bounds in interest and attendance, it was evidenced at last night's service by a full house when the time arrived for the beginning of the service.

After the ordinance of baptism had been administered, the sextette of the Lion's Club rendered two appropriate selections.

Delegations were present from the church at Enon Valley and the Madison Avenue church of this city.

The evening prayer was offered by D. P. Durbin of Wampum, after which Sarah Swan sang effectively "Give Your Best To Him." Then Mr. Walker who is an evangelist of exceptional ability, began his sermon on the subject, "Repentance That Counts" by reading from the third verse of the thirteenth chapter of Luke. He referred to the many errors of repentance which were the shedding of copious tears, sorrowing over sin and the reformation of life, and said as he was backed by the scriptures which he read that a man to repent must turn to God, and show the fruits of repentance. One young man made the good confession after the appeal. A great program is prepared for tonight. The sermon subject is, "The Confession that Tells."

MODERN ART

Its place in the world in general and at FISHER BROTHERS in particular

Fisher Brothers serve the millions . . . and because they serve these millions well are first to present to you Modern Men's Fashions. Just as they were first to present Modern Storekeeping, (chain stores). Fashion is an art in style precipitated and made necessary by changing environments. Do not confuse fashions with fads. A fad is a novelty that excites some interest and surprise but is always unimportant. In recent years we have had fads in Russian Boots, Helen Wills Caps, King Tut designs, etc . . . and because Fisher Brothers serve the millions they never become exuberant about a fad. But Modern Art is creating a new period—it is bringing new beauty and economy into this Modern world of ours. It is a fashion, not a fad.

THE AIR TRAVEL

One of the most modern influences upon life today is the life of man in the air. A man cannot think of life in the air, and thought of life cannot be turned toward the air as a medium of travel, without immediately dropping thoughts of more heavy, bulky, earth-savoring things. So we find the influence of the air as a medium of life, being carried out in light but strong fabrics, in the wide spread use of leather as a means of breaking the most potent factor of air life, the wind. Life in the air is really opening up a new world for Modern Man, and merchandise that reflects the speed and dash and freedom of that aerial life is natural being demanded by Modern Men.

MODERN ARCHITECTURE

The second big influence upon modern life is the effect of living conditions in apartments, and skyscraper buildings. In other words, the conservation of space. Materials have gone up in price, so that in building supplies, and dress fabrics, the extensive use of material to produce an effect is not practical. In place of 8 yards for a dress 3½ must be used. The small rooms in apartments have come to stay, and we must make them look spacious and artistic by different furniture. Modernistic furniture and low furniture that clings to the floor, at the same time with sweeping lines giving the appearance of high ceilings to low studded apartment house rooms, and give the idea of a bigger floor space in these same rooms. The skyscraper is the big factor in modern life, sounding the keynote in this connection.

MODERN ENGINEERING

The third big influence is engineering. By the wit of the engineer the world has been changed in the last 25 years from almost an orb of clay to a literal paradise where the fables of enchanted cities and people have at last come true. The engineering influence is life today, and one of the big factors, one of the Modern influences of engineering is geometric symmetry, or dynamic symmetry. The influence of geometric symmetry we find going from our skyscrapers and our motor cars, to the lines of our dresses and shirts, etc. The use of triangles, parallelograms, and sweeping curves accent the features of a woman's silhouette which she wishes to accent, and to take away from the same silhouette that which she desires to submerge. The modern designer of apparel finds that deft subtle touches, a diagonal line properly placed, means more than a bow here and profuse trimming . . . and THE MODERN also realizes that this is true. The days of bustlers, wasp waists, leg-of-mutton sleeves etc. is past. The silhouette is now being preserved at any cost.

MODERN WOMEN

The next big influence of Modern life is the coming of women into the field of industry, politics, and trade. This at first produced a type of merchandise that tended to rob women of her femininity and clothe her in unattractive masculine attire. Fortunately this has now been changed and we now have merchandise often referred to as the tailored type, that preserves the femininity of women in business, while at the same time it provides the direct frill-free type of apparel that is harmonious with life in industry and trade, which must be frill-free to be successful but must accent the proper lines . . . creating beauty.

MODERN SPEED

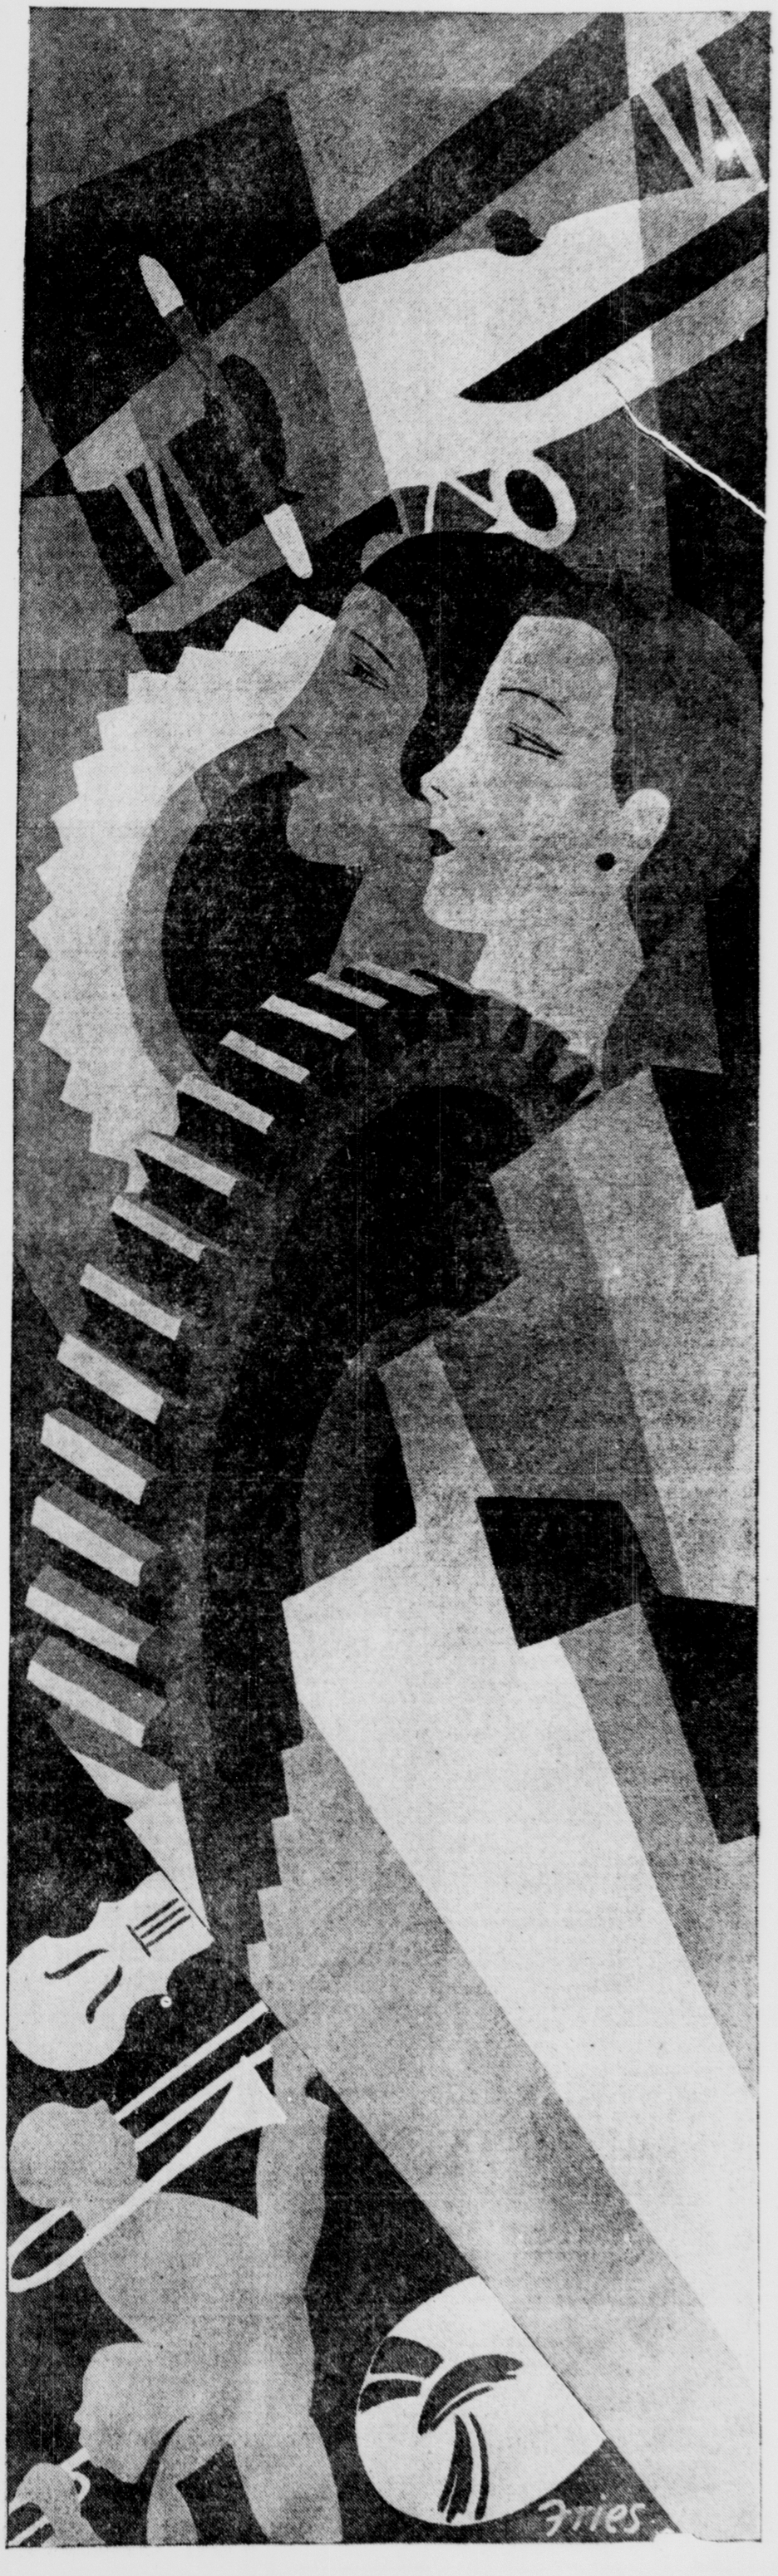

With the speed of our modern living the average man or woman crams in the space of 24 hours what would have filled 48 hours twenty-five years ago. This is to say, more things are actually accomplished, more things learned. All this makes for greater tension upon the strength of the average person. A relaxation must be provided for this more active life, and to the great mass the quiet of a book or the melody of classical music does not seem enough. Jazz music releases the spirit of a great many people from the tensity of their daily occupation, and gives them for a time a new freedom, a lack of strain. It's a wilder rhythm it takes to act as a tonic to a more jaded nerves.

MODERN MERCHANDISING

Fisher Brothers serve the millions . . . and because they serve these millions well they present for you tomorrow Modern Fashions in Men and Boys' Attire. The millions come to Fisher Brothers' stores in such numbers not only because of modern fascinating stocks of merchandise, but also because they believe in the economy of chain store operation. That large scale production does have its advantages. See our Modern windows.

Dawes In New Light

Vice President Pictured in an Entirely Different Anti-Hell-'n'-Maria Manner

Vice President Charles G. Dawes

By CHARLES P. STEWART
(Washington Correspondent for Central Press and New Castle News)

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Vice President Dawes had just finished reading a not altogether flattering magazine article about himself when I dropped in.

It wasn't an auspicious moment.

If ever any man was peeved all through, it was General Charles G. Dawes, at that particular juncture.

That he was peeved wasn't so surprising.

The magazine writer had set forth that, while General Dawes is reasonably great, he isn't nearly as great as he thinks he is.

The general was placed in the light of very generously over-estimating himself, which is enough to peeve anybody. The funny part of it was the perfect freedom with which the vice president made it known how peevish he felt. I'd have thought he'd have tried to hide it. But not a bit of it. There's no concealment about the general. Anything he has on his mind, he publishes.

The reason I know General Dawes had been reading this particular article was a remark which was made—proving it, conclusively.

The general already had several visitors in his private office when I poked in, including one very nice-looking lady. As I say, it was perperfectly evident that the vice president had had an awful grouch on, the instant he opened his mouth to let cut one of his most sarcastic utterances.

"Tee-hee!" giggled the lady, immediately adding, with infinite tact, "Not as great as he thinks he is!"

"That's all right, too," growled the general, obviously crestfallen.

It wasn't a first-class come-back, but it appeared to be the only one General Dawes had handy—and it was his turn to say something.

All of which leads up to the conclusion that I'm no very firm believer in the popular theory that Charles G. Dawes is a wonderful actor—a really mild man, who "puts on" all his "Hell-'n'-Maria stuff, for the sake of emphasis.

He acts rather, to my way of thinking, like a vice president with an extremely primitive—not to say, aboriginal—temperament, and lots of it, who positively can't disguise his feelings.

After he's had an outburst, I surmise that his conscience sometimes pricks him, and he swears that he made it all up—"for a purpose."

Its somewhat difficult to try to interview a vice president on his presidential prospects, when he isn't a candidate for the presidency—when Frank O. Lowden, also of Illinois, is his choice for the nomination.

I tried to get at it by indirection.

We all know that the vice presidency always has ranked as about the nearest to nothing that exists in politics, unless, of course, it opens, through the president's death, into the White House.

It hasn't done this in Vice president Dawes' case, and yet he has managed, for the first time on record, to make it an interesting office.

When I wanted to know was whether the general considered that it was pretty much the kind of job that the incumbent makes of it—or whether he regarded it as a berth intrinsically without any valuable possibilities, a place that an ambitious young politician always will do well to steer clear of.

My dope was that he might thus be tempted into revealing something significant and maybe of historic interest.

"No sir," rasped the general.

"How can I answer a question like that?—without making it appear that my predecessors, all of them, were no good and I'm a marvel, or that they were all right and I've botched it.

"Folks think they can come in here"—indignantly—"and I'll unburden my sorrowful soul on any and all subjects.

"Yes, I know—that's the way I've been advertised.

"It's a mistake, I tell you."

The truth seems to be that the general, having himself started the Hell-'n'-Maria business, is getting a little sick of it. He wanted an occasional teaspoonful, and the chroniclers have given him a hogshead.

He isn't actually vicious. There wasn't any sting to the reproaches I've mentioned.

He's very popular among the senators.

The kids—like the pages—worship him.

He simply is temperamental. It doesn't look or sound like acting—just effervescence.

The vice presidency unquestionably irks him sorely. He suggests a tiger in a cage, behind his desk in the senate chamber—with all kinds of choice tiger-food circulating around outside, that he longs to get his teeth and claws into—and he can't—barred in and muzzled by the most tantalizing office that a live he-man ever was cooped up inside of.

Whether or not the general's a statesman nobody knowns. He hasn't had a chance to demonstrate what he could do in that line, given the opportunity. But his is a very vivid personality.

If he could express himself on the senate floor, he'd be a headliner—that's a certainty. People come from far and near to see him merely sitting on his platform, hammering with his gavel and occasionally recognizing the gentleman from such-and-such a state." There isn't much thrill in such a role, but he manages to put some pep into it.

The general's quite a tall man, but slender.

He has a humorous face, which suggests that he's thinking about something funny, even when he's appealing to Hell-'n'-Maria.

As for the vice presidency, as one of his friends told me, inasmuch as the general himself wouldn't talk about it, "it doesn't keep him as busy as he's accustomed to."

"RELIGION AND THE JOYOUS LIFE"

Thursday

"The Joy of a Good Conscience"

SCRIPTURE: Memory verse: "I have lived before God in all good conscience until this day" (Acts 23:11).

Read: Psalm 15.

MEDITATION: A good conscience is a great joy. One may suffer materially for the course that he has conscientiously taken; public opinion may not approve and friends may criticize; but the heart is filled with an incomparable peace. There is no greater source of inner satisfaction than to be able to say: "I have done what I think is right." Truth and right reward their faithful followers by the sense of inward peace. Out of experience came the familiar simple creed of a distinguished man: "I know it is right to do right." Goethe remarked on reading some memoirs: "We learn from this what a splendid thing truth is when anyone has the courage to speak it."

PRAYER: O God of truth, may we be loyal to the truth we know and faithfully follow the way which commends itself to our conscience, so that we may find our wills in harmony with Thine and know the peace that passeth understanding. In Jesus' name. Amen.

If India is Bolshevised and thrown into utter confusion, as China has been, the world outlook will be black indeed, declared the Maharajah of Burdwan, one of the greatest Indian nobles and respected in Europe for his intelligence and foresight. In an interview granted recently he said that India is the pivotal point in the Moscow campaign against western civilization and that the soviet is making extraordinary efforts to stir up the north-west frontier tribes. Hoover Consents To Enter Primary Opposing Watson

Supporters Believe Commerce Secretary Will Enter Indiana Primary

LOWDEN SENTIMENT GROWING STRONGER

Old-Fashioned Free-For-All In Indiana Primary Is In Offing

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The question of whether Herbert Hoover will enter the Indiana primary opposing the favorite son candidacy of Senator James E. Watson was put squarely up to his chief advisers in Indiana today.

Hoover has consented to enter the fight—and it probably will be a savage one—if his advisers and supporters, after a careful canvas of the situation in Indianapolis today, believe that such a course is wise. The decision has been left to them, it was stated at the secretary's office here this morning.

The time for filing in Indiana expires at midnight tonight.

It is anticipated here that the Hoover managers in the state will be guided largely by what they can learn of the intentions of the Lowden camp. The Hoover people would relish an out-and-out contest with Senator Watson himself, despite his control of the state organization, but there is a feeling that the Lowden managers may also jump into the fight as soon as Hoover's papers are filed.

Lowden Sentiment Appears

There is admittedly a good deal of Lowden sentiment in the state and Senator Watson, although himself a candidate, is known to lean more strongly to Lowden and Dawes than to the secretary of commerce. Hence the apprehension on the part of the Hoover managers that if they file too far in advance of the closing of the lists at midnight Watson may extend an eleventh-hour invitation to Lowden and other candidates to come into the state for an old-fashioned free-for-all.

Against Watson alone the Hoover people are confident; against Lowden and Watson they are not so confident, for Indiana is an agricultural state with a considerable peeve over the way things have been going for the farmers under the Coolidge administration. Both Indiana senators supported the McNary-Haugen bill, which Lowden also endorsed, and which Secretary Hoover has opposed.

It is understood that there will be no further informal conferences upon the subject unless warranted by future developments. DIPLOMATIC IMMUNITY STIRS WASHINGTONIANS

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Washington Correspondent for Central Press and New Castle News

WASHINGTON, March 8.—"Diplomatic immunity" is a "relic of barbarism," if you'll take it from quite a few Washingtonians.

A formidable rumpus to abolish it has been started by what's known as the Kalorama Citizens' association. If the national capitol weren't a czardom, run by a board of commissioners who care no more how the District of Columbia serfs feel about their government than they do about so many Hottentots, you can bet it would be abolished. But who can tell what the commissioners'll say about it?

The Washingtonians' complaint is—they're tired of being killed by diplomats. They think it's important—but they don't understand diplomacy.

Now, an ambassador or minister isn't supposed to be subject to the laws of the country he's accredited to. Neither are the members of his family, or any of his subordinates or hirelings. The only laws they have ta pay any attention to are the laws of the country of that particular diplomat's origin.

No matter what a foreign diplomat, or any member of his personal or official family does, it isn't good form to call him to account for it.

He could commit burglarly or arson or murder, and about all this country could do would be to ask his home government to recall him.

In fact there's one well-known case of a foreign diplomatic representative who engaged in wholesale bootlegging.

He could and they say he did, import into the country all the "diplomatic licker" that he wanted to, and, on the technically "foreign soil" of his legation, he could legally sell it, too, and they say he did that also.

Ultimately the state department asked—wouldn't his foreign office kindly invite him home?—which it did, and that ended that scandal.

However, it goes to show that a diplomats a privileged character.

Not long ago one of the Persian legation's cars killed a man.

O. K.—a "diplomatic incident."

A little later a victim of the son of the then Norwegian minister was brought into a hospital so badly damaged that his own father operated on him, as a surgeon, without recognizing him, until, after he was dead, he was identified by papers in his pockets.

Too bad—but "diplomatic."

A son of Sir Esme Howard, the British ambassador, was recently banished to England for running over a Washingtonian—but banishment was the worst fate that befell him—"diplomatic immunity."

* * *

A man who rises to the post of minister or ambassador generally has some sense.

There isn't so much criticism of the boss diplomats.

The young squirts who hold the secretarial positions are the ones the Washington populace holds in deadly terror—and would lynch, too, sometimes, on mighty small provocation.

Chicago To Stage Next National Play In Pocket Billiards

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, March 8.—Chicago will get the next National Pocket Billiard championship according to the announcement at the National Billiard Association of America headquarters which organization will sponsor future national and world's professional championship affairs.

Ten of the outstanding players of the United States will be selected by a special tournament committee from the entries received. Entries closed February 15.

Prizes totaling $5.000 will be distributed in addition to the championship emblem.

In addition to $1,200 cash prize and the emblem, the champion will receive a $250.00 per month salary while in possession of the title.

An added feature to the championship play will be the right to compete in the World's Championship Pocket Billiard Tournament to be held next October. Denver Teachers Now Organized

(International News Service)

DENVER, March 8.—With a charter membership of 51, the Denver local of the American Federation of Teachers has been organized, and R. V. Holwell, vocational teacher has been selected as president.

The teaching personnel in the Denver public schools totals approximately 2,500, and, according to Holwell, steps will be taken to materially increase the membership in the Denver local.

While Denver school authorities plan no counter-move against the so-called "Teachers Union," Mrs. Florence Curtis Hanson of the American Federation of Teachers, who aided in the local chapter's organization, encountered little enthusiasm amongst the public school teachers here in behalf of the union, which is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

DRINK WATER TO HELP WASH OUT KIDNEY POISON

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

Woman Visits Entire World In 20 Years

(International News Service)

PLYMOUTH, March 8.—A 69-year-old woman walker has arrived at Plymouth who has just completed the final lap of a lifetime's wandering around the world. She has been "on tramp" for 20 years.

Miss Gertrude Benham has visited practically every country in the world, and has set foot in many parts of Africa where no white woman has been before.

"Twenty years ago," says Miss Benham, who looks astonishingly well and has a complexion like a young girl's, "I was attracted by the grandeur of the Swiss mountains. That started me off on a quest for beauty in nature and the search has gone on ever since.

"I am a lone wanderer. I have no home in the sense that is generally understood. Yet I am never lonely. My needs are few, and I can afford to go wherever I want to go. On an average I never spend more than $1250 a year."

Many thrilling adventures have befallen this intrepid woman wanderer. In the African bush she has had many escapes from wild animals.

Cigarettes Cause English Women To Stop Eating Candy

(International News Service)

LONDON, March 8.—Shingle trims and smoking have so much affected the consumption of candy in Britain that the biggest candy manufacturing firms are making big cuts in prices.

Sir Harold Mackintosh, head of the famous Mackintosh candy manufacturing firm says: "The confectionary trade has been severe hit recently by the modern trend of fashion.

"The day has gone by when women would stay indoors all afternoon and evening and consume large quantities of candy. Today they think about their figures and ration themselves with perhaps one or two pieces, followed by a drink of lemon water to keep them slim.

"The increase of smoking among women has also meant that fewer sweets are eaten. Again, the vast sums spent on hairdressing and on stockings by the modern miss has meant that less money is available for candy. We have to meet this competition and revise prices accordingly."

This man will never grow old

Full of pep at 60. Never expects to get too old to enjoy life. Has found secret.

HE'S ALWAYS astonishing people by introducing a lanky grandson or a flapper great-niece. For he's one of those men who seem young. With a clear skin, a springy step. And a laugh like a boy's. Actually he's reaching the age when most men think about retiring from business.

"Why should I retire?" he asks. "Never felt better in my life. All I ever need to keep well is Nujol. And that's not medicine." He's right. Nujol is a natural substance, perfected by the Nujol Laboratories of the Standard Oil Company (New Jersey). It contains absolutely no medicine or drugs. But it keeps the body functioning normally. For Nujol not only prevents any excess of the body poisons (we all have them) from forming, but also aids in their removal.

There's no age limit on Nujol. Doctors put babies on it soon after they're born. School children take it. Mothers and fathers. And the very old folks, too.

Maybe you think you feel perfectly well. Perhaps you suspect you don't. Anyway, try taking Nujol and see if there isn't a difference. Take it for 3 months. It can't do any harm to try. And it might do a lot of good. Everyone else who's tried it says so.

Be sure you get the genuine.

ALIMONY BRIDES MAKE BUSINESS OF COLLECTING

By HARRY BLOOMBARGH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CLEVELAND, O., March 8.—Marrying for alimony as a profession, has reached enormous proportions in the United States, if nearly $1,000,000 paid divorcees last year, in Cuyhoga County, in which Cleveland is located, is any indication, Arthur J. Eyring alimony clerk recently remarked.

The women who make a business of collecting alimony here have increased 340 per cent in the past 10 years, Eyring revealed. In 1917 only 81 women drew checks from their former spouses. Today the number is so great that the divorced women are often obliged to stand in line.

Local alimonees received $222,923.06 in cash in 1927 and nearly $750,000 in property and money settlements were made, Eyring showed in his annual report.

Some Are Deserving

Eyring who has paid out alimony for many years declared that although many women are deserving in being supported by their former husband, it is unbelievable the number of women who are receiving checks from two or maybe three misguided former husbands. He said these divorcees have developed a highly skillful technique of marrying divorcing and suing for alimony, then remarry some wealthier man, divorcing and suing again for alimony.

Where there are children, Eyring believes it is no more than right for the former married man should aid in supporting his former wife and "kiddies." It is contended, however, that the familiar "gold-diggers" far outnumber all other alimony receivers.

Life Contracts

Most judges, Eyring declared, regard marriages as a life contract and think that if the contract is broken through the fault of the husband or not, the wife is fully justified in taking alimony as a fair return for her investment.

However, it is said, that more modern justices feel it a great injustice for a right-minded woman to accept support from a man she has ceased to love and live with and are extremely cautious about alimony rewards.

Eyring believes that the "alimony business" will increase almost threefold in 1928.

The man who runs away from the presidential bee may be stung just the same and right where it will make it impossible for him to sit in the White House chair.

Four Good Boxers In Bowen Family

All In Boxing Matches On February 22 And None Is Defeated

New Castle boxing fans in particular, and all boxing fans in general will be interested in the affairs of the Bowen family, in which four good boxers have been developed.

It is rather unusual in itself that four members of one family should be engaged in appearing in the squared ring events but the most unusual feature in regard to the Bowen family, former residents of this district, is that on Washington's birthday, February 22, all four brothers appeared in bouts, two at Rockville, Md., and two at Miami, and that not one of the four was defeated.

Three won the decision, while the fourth secured a draw.

Roaches kill them with FLIT

At Miami, Andy scored a decision over Billie Ritchie of Philadelphia, while Johnny Bowen outpointed Young Sullivan.

CHICAGO, March 8.—Two bandits early today obtained $700,000 in stock, $9,000 in negotiable bonds and $7,000 in jewelry in a holdup at the Borin Manufacturing Co. plant at Cicero, Western Chicago suburb.

How they obtained entrance to the plant, where mirrors, picture and mirror frames are manufactured, is a mystery. An engineer and watchman who were in the plant at the time were both guarded by one bandit while the other ransacked the safes in the office of the president, Nathan Borin, and outer offices.

The bandits first encountered Leon Malinowsky, engineer, whom they forced to lead them to the watchman, Anton Bynerd, while one bandit forced Malinowsky and Bynerd to stand with their faces to the wall and hands stretched above their heads in the president's outer office, the second robber went in search of a sledge hammer.

Returning, the bandit knocked the combination from the president's safe and took $8,000 in negotiable foreign bonds and $7,000 worth of jewelry belonging to Mrs. Borin from the safe. He then knocked the combination from the safes in the outer office and obtained $700,000 in signed common and preferred stock of the Borin Manufacturing Co., and $1,000 in negotiable domestic bonds.

Democratic Party Fund Is Swelled By Number Of Big Contributions

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 8. — The Democratic party, which has been chronically more or less "broke" since the 1920 campaign, is again in a state of affluence, and whoever emerges at Houston with the presidential nomination will be able to face the electorate without a party deficit looming up in the rear.

Jesse H. Jones, the party treasurer, has reported to Chairman Clem Shaver that a total of $508,500 has been raised and pledged to put the party on its financial feet, pay all its indebtedness, and still leave a tidy margin with which to inaugurate the 1928 campaign.

The chief item reported was the $200,000 which Houston citizens raised to finance the convention.

Some of the party's leading supporters came generously to its aid with gifts. The most prominent of these were Thomas F. Ryan of New York, $50,000; Jesse Jones of Texas, $50,000; C. H. Watson of West Virginia, and Wm. F. Kenny, of New York, each with $25,000. There were a number of $10,000 donors, including John W. Davis, the 1924 standard bearer; Frank L. Polk, of New York; William Julian of Cincinnati; H. H. Lehman, of New York, and John H. Kirby, of Texas.

New charm, new beauty by a morning drink

Do you know how poisons and wastes in the system affect your complexion, your fitness, your vivacity?

Then do this in the morning—or any time—when you know that poisons need elimination. Drink a glass of water, hot or cold. Add a little "Epsonade." It will make a sparkling drink.

The effect is to flush the intestines in a way pleasant, prompt and gentle. Results usually appear in an hour. And they come from the acids of lemon and grape.

Nearing Vote On Lame Duck Congress

Resolution Has Opposition Of Some Powerful Leaders Of House

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Powerful leaders of the house got into action today in an effort to defeat the Norris-White "lame duck" resolution.

Rep. John Q. Tilson of Connecticut, Republican leader, and Rep. Martin B. Madden (R) of Illinois, appropriations committee chairman, were scheduled to take the floor and denounce the attempt to change the dates for presidential inaugurations and the convening of congress.

The former is a warm defender of "lame duck" congresses—the even-year sessions in which defeated members may serve—and the latter declares that the proposed constitutional amendment would seriously impair the budget system.

Under the amendment, according to Madden, the budget would have to be submitted by a "lame duck" president or a president new to the job. The amendment sends congress into session January 4 each year and changes the inauguration to January 24.

The entire afternoon was expected to be taken in the fight over the resolution, with prospects for the final vote being put off until tomorrow.

Backers of the measure were still confident that they could command the necessary two-thirds vote but admitted that they faced a stiff fight.

(International News Service)

KANSAS CITY March, 8.—An English woman has filed suit against a wealthy Kansas City realtor, asking $10,000 damages in connection with death of her husband, a former Captain in the English Army, who was gored to death by an infuriated bull on the rich man's farm near here, September 27, last.

Mrs. Anna Fraser, of London, contends in her petition filed here, that the land owner, A. J. King, was negligent in allowing Fraser to work near the bull when he knew, or should have known that the animal "possessed vicious propensities."

William T. Alford, Mrs. Fraser's attorney, declares his client to be destitute, and that she had been totally dependent upon small sums of money sent her by her husband before his death.

Fraser was attacked by the bull as he was leading it to water. Mr. King and his chauffeur, William Piper, attempted to rescue the Englishman, and were severely injured when the bull turned on them.

Just as it appeared that all three of the men would be gored or trampled to death, George Oppenheimer, an insurance man visiting the King farm, drove a $5,000 automobile into the animal with terrific force. Again and again Oppenheimer charged the animal with the expensive limousine, but the attacks only made the animal more ferocious.

While Fraser lay mortally wounded, and King and the chauffeur lay beneath the animal, "Jack", a German police dog of King's rushed in at the bull, biting and snapping at its heels, until the animal took up the fight with the dog and King and Piper were able to escape to safety.

Tavistock Hotel, Famous Landmark To Be Torn Down

(International News Service)

LONDON, March. 8.—Another of England's famous landmarks, redolent with memories of a past generation, is doomed to extinction. The Tavsitock Hotel, one of the last of the London hostelries famous throughout the 19th century, has been sold, and the probabilities are that it will be torn down to make room for a modern building.

In its heyday, the Tavistock was the resort of such celebrated men as Dickens and Thackery, and was renowned for its old-world atmosphere and hospitality. No women guests were permitted in those days, and innovations of every kind were fought against as long as possible.

Even in modern times, the Tavisock Hotel managed to maintain much of its ancient charm and personality. To the last it had its faithful adherents, men who had known it all their lives, and there are many who will miss its rare combination of solid comfort, air of restfulness and distinct individuality.

Corn Borer Squad Plans To Resume Mercer County Work

(Special To The News)

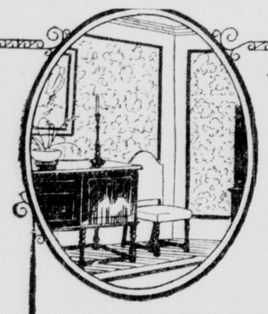

MERCER, Pa., March 8.—Spring's arrival is anxiously awaited in this county by Meade Davidson and his six inspectors who are the federal force selected last year to make inspection of county farms for the purpose of seeing to it that corn refuse was burnt as a part of the federal plan of eradicating the corn borer.

The same minute inspection will be made this year, it is reported. A large percentage of the territory that was included in the infected area of last year found in five states has been released, it is reported as no longer dangerous.

Erie, Warren and Mercer counties are still included, it is said.

This fact is no reproach on either the farmers or inspectors for the parasite made its appearance from New York state first in Erie county and was known to be existant here for a season prefacing the eradication program.

Burning of all stubbles and picking up all refuse of cobs and stalks and burning them before May when propagation takes place is the program.

The Four-wheel brakes used on the Essex Super-Six are the same type used on costliest cars and assure the maximum brake safety, as well as the softness of control that you associate only with high priced cars. They merely typify the costly car way Essex is built throughout—and you can verify this detail by detail, inside and out, by comparison first with costly cars—and then with cars in the Essex price class.

The Essex Super-Six high-compression motor is patented and exclusive, and is so far as we know the most powerful and efficient motor of its size in the world. It eliminates vibration by preventing its occurrence, and so can sustain high speeds, smoothly, effortlessly and indefinitely.

The beautiful Essex instrument board is of ebony finish, grouping under indirect light, motometer, gasoline gauge, oil gauge, speedometer and ammeter. Compare it with the costly car instrument boards—which it is like—and with instrument boards in its price class—which it is decidedly unlike.

Art School Student Yale Record Editor

(International News Service)

NEW HAVEN, Conn. March, 8—Someone's always upsetting precedent at Yale these days and creating excitement among the undergraduates. The latest thing to startle and amaze the student body is the election of an Art School student to edit Yale Record, famous light magazine issued supposedly by undergraduates. "A bad precedent," many students have dechared, writing fervent letters to the news in protest.

Now the students expect that ancient "Lit," a publication in which many men who afterward became famous authors first saw their things in print, may be placed in the hands of a graduate school student and so remove another institution from undergraduate hands.

Will Soon Have Air Service To East Indies, Say

(International News Service)

LONDON, March, 8.—Arrangements are now being completed for the establishment of the first air service to the East Indies.

The route, over which mails and passengers will be carried, lies between Batavia and Sourabaya at the opposite extremities of the island of Java. The distance is five hundred miles, and while the existing railroad trains take two days to make the journeys, the flight, with one stop, will occupy but six hours.

Java is the largest Dutch possession with a population two-thirds that of Great Britain. The air-line will be operated by the Royal Dutch Air Lines. Forty-five volcanoes, many of which are active, lie in the path mapped out for the flight.

Dr. Susan M. Dorsey who has been re-elected to a six year term as superintendent of schools in Los Angeles is the highest salaried city school superintendent in the United States.

Office Defeats Hot Mills In Battle For Half Season Championship, 32-21

Will Meet Mechanical Fast Team Saturday Night For Season's Championship

ELLWOOD CITY, March 8.—About 900 basketball fans stormed the portals of the Shelby basketball floor last night to witness the clash between the Office Five and the Hot Mill quintet for the championship of the first half of the basketball season. Many were turned away on account of lack of seating capacity.

The game started off with the entire Office team working as one man perfect in passing and intercepting. The Hot Mills five seemed to suffer a slump in the first half allowing the Office to gain largely but during the second half they rallied their forces and made a quick come-back so that the final score stood 32 for the Office and 21 for the Hot Mills.

Saturday night the Office team will clash with the Mechanical team which won the championship of the second half of the Interdepartmental games at the Shelby to decide the championship for the entire season. This promise to be an interesting spectacle as the Mechanical department has a fast team and has mowed down everything in their track thus far.

The priliminary game last night was staged between the Clark Five and the Temple Israel Five from New Castle a snappy game which ended in the Clark team being the victors with a score of 28 to 19.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Just Among Us Girls

"WEARIN' O' THE GREEN" HINTS

On St. Patrick's Day it's eminently proper to "stick to wearin' o' the green." That is what the house and hostess here are doing. You can make your own decorations and costume for the party. Draw sample shamrocks—different sizes—and cut from green paper, combining with streamers as illustrated. The harp should not be difficult to fashion of wire, paper wrapped, and the place cards and favors may be what you will, provided they are green—suggestive of spring as well as the Emerald Isle. Cut as many Irish jokes as possible from papers and magazines and paste on shamrocks and have the guests read them during the evening. Refreshments should contain as many dishes with green in them as possible—sandwiches, salad, olives, cake with green frosting and green candles.

"This safe soap washes clothes whiter—"

says Mrs. J. Bruce, 924 Morton St.

"I WAS amazed to see how white clothes came, when I first used Rinso in my washer," says this delighted local woman, one of thousands who have written us.

"It's so easy to get them snowy now! Rinso makes our water so soft and sudsy that you don't have to boil or to scrub a thing. No wonder clothes don't fray out at the edges as they used to! It's so safe!

"It's great for washing dishes, too. Takes grease off like magic. I use it for practically all my cleaning now—floors, sinks, woodwork, etc. A little Rinso goes so far that it's the most economical soap in the long run. Saves the cost of water softeners, too.

Makers of 32 leading washers say "Use Rinso"

Rinso suds are the secret of its popularity! Rich and creamy in the hardest water, these quick-working suds rinse out in a jiffy—and carry all the dirt and stains along. Clothes come from the washer the whitest ever.

No wonder 32,000 demonstrators use Rinso to show their machines at their best. No wonder the makers of 32 leading washers say, "Use Rinso for safety—and for whiter, brighter washes!"

This famous granulated hard-water soap is all you need. It asks no help of bar soaps, chips, powders or softeners.

Why, with Rinso you don't even need to boil the wash—clothes come so sweet and sparkling!

Get Rinso in time for next washday. Just feel how weighty the package is! You get your full money's worth when you buy this compact granulated soap.

Great for tub washing, too

If you do the wash by hand, you'll find Rinso an amazing work-saver. It soaks clothes whiter than you could scrub them. Even the most soiled cuffs and edges become snowy with little or no rubbing. This gentle way saves the clothes—saves your hands. Try it!

THE OLD HOME TOWN — Stanley

The Daybook OF A New Yorker

BY BURTON RASCOE

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News

NEW YORK, March 8.—A sharp whining noise increases in volume and a smart looking monoplane rushes toward the long row of parked cars. It clears them by feet only as it rises and the passengers thrill mechanically as the pilot banks his machine in a pretty turn.

Curtiss Field, on weekdays and holidays alike, is crowded with thousands who have come just to watch. Commuters and local citizens, in cars and on foot, smart and hoi polloi, are found all day at the Long Island field.

It must be that Lindbergh and those that came after him made people what advertising men would call "air conscious". Just within the the past year the Long Island hangars, made known by various starts for long distance flights, have become a new variety of amusement park. Mostly their novelty lies in the fact that there is no charge for the entertainment.

Curtiss Field is a raucus and heterogeneous mechanical circus. Not five minutes pass in which a plane does not take off or swoop down upon the rutted ground. Four thousand spectators, having seen the same action dozens of times before, move their eyes and heads as one person, following the flight. Once the plane has gained the air safely, it has lost interest for the mob.

All day long they sit placidly, perhaps mildly, yearning for a few exciting fatalities. They bring their lunch and children. Mostly they sit in silence, saving their energy for the moment when the plane takes off when they exclaim: "Whew, that was a close one!" or just "Boy, oh boy!"

In the driver's seat of the automobile is generally seen the husband with tortoise-shell glasses, cigar and blank expression that may indicate wells of thought. This strong, silent fellow, no one to wear his heart upon his sleeve, is given to smiling quietly, ironically, at things that only he can see. He will seldom utter more than the sound of an indrawn breath at the moment of take-off.

Then there are those who come out to the field day after day, vainly trying to get courage to go up. A dozen false starts each day toward the plane that takes passengers for short trips, and they have had their quota of thrills right on the ground. The least little thing, a gust of wind, a "funny sound in her motor," a dirty look from the pilot, or a happy last thought for the wife and kiddies is sufficient to cause these long suffering souls to turn about. These are they who are not a little disappointed when other passengers step out of a returned plane with the usual number of limbs, and those intact. Each day they go home, irrevocably determined to brush aside all silly fears next day.

Add to our own list of distinctive personages Louis Klopsch, among whose many titles is that of Founder of the Bowery bread line. Just how he founded it, I cannot say. But a tablet on the ceiling of the Bowery Mission commemorates the now dead hero to a new generation of bums. I have visions of Mr. Klopsch inaugurating the bread line in 1903. I wonder if he broke a celebrative bottle of beer over the head of the first bum to stand in line?

Construct Hot Bed For Plant Growing

County Farm Agent Gives Instructions On Hot Bed Construction

Many people prefer to grow their early vegetable and flower plants for the home garden instead of purchasing them. A good way to do this is in a hot bed, says County Agent H. R. McCulloch. When once it is constructed it will last a number of years. The size of the hot bed, of course, will vary according to the need. Usually it is covered with standard three by six feet hot bed sash, in which case six feet, or the length of the sash, becomes the width of the hot bed and the length can be any multiple of three.

"A southern exposure with maximum sunlight is best for the hot bed which should be protected from the northwest winds," McCulloch declares. "The north wall or side should be at least 12 to 18 inches in height, and the south side six to 12 inches. Fairly heavy planks should be used in construction. By this method the hot bed will have a six-inch drop toward the south. The manure pit is usually of the same size as the hot bed. The depth of the pit may vary from 18 to 24 inches, depending upon the length of time artificial heat is needed."

Line the bottom and sides with old boards to conserve as much heat as possible. Fresh horse manure is best. It should be in the first stages of heating. Fill the pit with manure to within four inches of the top, tramping it thoroughly. Add four or five inches of rich, fine sifted soil, into which the seed is sown.

Keep a thermometer in the hot bed to eliminate guessing at the temperature. McCulloch suggests. According to the seeds planted, temperatures should vary from 70 to 100 degrees Fahrenheit.

EVERY DAY WAS ONE OF MISERY FOR THIS LADY

Suffering Ended By Ten Herbs; Even Neighbors Note How Well She Looks

"No one knows what I have suffered for years with my stomach, liver, and kidneys," was the statement of Mrs. Mary T. Golec, 305 Mulberry St., Butler, Pa., to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, New Castle, where he is daily demonstrating the great natural medicine, Ten Herbs. "If I ate even a bite of bread, it would cause a feeling as if there were a lump the size of an egg pressing against my side, and there would be intense distress," continued Mrs. Golec, who is highly respected in this community, where she has lived nearly all her life.

MRS. MARY T. GOLEC

"Food would arise in my mouth in about the same state I had eaten it. I was troubled with a burning sensation in my stomach, which would bloat with gas, and there were sharp pains across my back. I was so badly constipated that I had to take pills almost every night. Honestly, I felt so bad that I could hardly drag one foot after the other. Many a morning I awoke and instead of welcoming another day, I felt that it meant only another day of suffering for me.

"I read in the Butler paper what Ten Herbs was doing for others, and decided that I would at least have a talk with you. I am very thankful that I did, as after taking only one bottle I noticed an improvement. I can now enjoy my meals, as I do not have any distress after eating. The pains in my back and side have about left, and my liver seems to be acting the way Nature intended. I feel a hundred per cent better in every way, and that is saying a great deal. Even neighbors note how much better I am looking. I cannot recommend Ten Herbs too highly."

The wonderful natural ingredients in Ten Herbs have a highly beneficial effect on the stomach, liver, kidneys, and bowels, and give the entire system a thorough cleansing.

The Ten Herbs Man is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, New Castle, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine. He will be glad to tell you how to take it to get the best results. Free sample given.

GENERAL ELECTRIC Refrigerator

The General Electric Refrigerator is so simple that it hasn't a single exposed moving part. It hasn't a belt or a fan or a drain pipe. It has no connections or stuffing boxes. It never needs oiling because the hermetically sealed casing which holds all the mechanism also holds a permanent supply of oil.

A specially designed motor of low horse-power, but high efficiency, uses very little current. Then, too, the top unit design allows all the heat (extracted from the box and generated by the tiny motor) to be dissipated above the box—not to rise through it.

Standards of quietness, vary so widely that we can only invite you to listen to the refrigerators yourself to find how quietly they operate.

Neck Is Most Important Beauty Link, Women Warned

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN Internationally Known Authority on the Cultivation and Preservation of Beauty.

Every woman who has a firm, well-rounded chin and a clean cut jaw line possesses one of the chief elements of beauty. It is common encugh in youth, but, alas, after 30 it seems to blur and fade; and when we look into the mirror we see tissues and muscles drooping into an ugly, aging double chin!

No one who takes beauty seriously—and what clever woman does not?—neglects the importance of the chin, neck and throat. The neck is the human beauty link. It connects, or should connect, a lovely torso with a lovely face. And surely it must be no less beautiful than either. For this reason, my next articles will deal with "the neck line of beauty".

Sleep without a pillow. Holding the neck erect for 24 hours a day aids immeasurably in maintaining a clear, lovely contour. Carry your head high. It not only will help you to tell yourself that "all's well with the world," but it will also help you to keep the cameo line of youth.

Women read and sew and perform all matter of household tasks with chins too far down. Try not to! Remember that every time you slump you encourage fatty tissues to form around your chin, your throat and your shoulders.

If you are past the preventive age "take your chin in hand." You can do wonders to it with firm palms and muscular fingers. Grasp your chin in your palm and shape the chin with your fingers, pressing upward against the jaw bone a little heavily underneath at first, and then lightening the pressure as you circle the throat. Use the thumb and forefinger, holding the chin between these two fingers. Then upward, always. Have each finger describe a half circle until they meet just above the starting point.

Take Glycerine Mixture—Gas All Gone

"As soon as I ate I was in misery. I tried Adlerika, and to my surprise it ended stomach gas entirely. I eat anything I want now."—T. M. Schlabach.

The simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, saline, etc., (known as Adlerika), has a most surprising DOUBLE action. First, it acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel (most medicines act on lower bowel only) and removes foul matter that often poisoned the system for months. Second, Adlerika clears all GAS and sourness from stomach and bowels, bringing INSTANT relief from stomach trouble. And in addition, Adlerika removes metabolic poisons which cause neuritis, rheumatism, etc.

Dr. J. Weaver: "In my 50 years' practice, I have found nothing to excel Adlerika."

J. E. Puckett: "After using Adlerika, I feel better than for 20 years. Awful impurities were eliminated."

It will astonish you the great amounts of poisonous matter Adlerika brings out—matter you would never believe was in your system. In chronic constipation, gas bloating, sour stomach and sick headache, just ONE spoonful Adlerika brings wonderful relief. At leading druggists.

SHORT ROMANCES OF EVERYDAY LIFE

Moons Are Different

By Phil Moore

MARY and Sue watched the moon, rising in state over the roofs of Venice, splash the canals and curving gondolas with gold. The Summer wind blew over the water, cool and soft, and the old city lay under the night, still and vibrant with romance.

"Oh, it's gorgeous, isn't it?" Mary said softly. "Like a lovely dream."

Sue had rested her head on her soft young palms.

"Oh, I'm sick of Europe," she said, and her voice was not quite steady. "I'm sick of Europe and of these everlasting moons."

Mary looked at her friend curiously. Then suddenly she noticed in the faint light that tears were shining on Sue's cheeks.

"Please tell me what's the matter, Sue? I wouldn't tell. In college I told you all my secrets."

Sue's face when she turned to her friend was full of young tragedy. "Oh, I think Fate's mean!" she cried. "I keep swearing that I'll forget him, and then—I can't. Oh, he was wonderful, Mary."

Mary did not have to beg her to go on. Sue was looking at the water, her eyes shining; the mysterious "he" might have been right before her.

"I met him in Yellowstone, last Summer," she went on. "Europe is beautiful, I know, but it isn't like the West, with its grand mountains and deep valleys. Anyway, I met Bob there, and that alone would make me like Yellowstone better than all this" —waving her arm at the shining canals below.

"I adored him the minute I saw him across the hotel ball room. He was so tall and blond, so 'just nice' looking. Then pretty soon he went over to Dad—he had the nicest walk —and asked him if he could be introduced. I was thrilled to death."

Mary laughed. "I can imagine you. I bet you beamed and blushed, and bewitched the poor thing with your red hair. That's what always gives you a head start with men."

"Well, we started to dance, but soon it seemed as though all the colored lights and laughing people and wonderful jazz were in the way; you know, as if nothing in the world mattered but just us. So without a word he took me by the arm and we went outdoors where there was, oh, a much nicer moon than this one." She looked disdainfully at the huge, gold Italian moon.

"He put his arm around me, and it was wonderful. But soon I began to get scared. I was afraid that if I let him kiss me he would think I was the standard little flapper who always lets first-nighters do that. He said the sweetest things as he meant them, Mary, and he told me all about his life, which had been sadder than most boys."

"O, Sue, you should have let him kiss you!"

She beat her little fists on the window sill. "I know it! I know it! When I said no, he looked as though I had hit him, and all he said was "I'm sorry. I am a fool. You are the only girl I have ever cared for, really, and I thought you liked me better than you do. I've made a crazy mistake. Nothing I could say would help, so we went inside, shook hands and said good-by.

"That's why I am going to be an old maid. I know I can never meet anyone like him. I let my chance slip, and it isn't like Fate to let me meet him again."

Both girls were silent for a few minutes. In spite of her gallant red hair Sue looked defeated and forlorn. Only a few gondolas glided up the canals now, and the moon was lower. Voices and laughter no longer came floating over the water.

"And I don't even care that I am going to a girls' school in a strange city next year, where I won't meet many boys. I honestly have lost interest, Mary."

The gay Summer went on. Mary and Sue danced with American college boys at the Lido, went swimming in the blue Mediterranean at Amalfi, shopped in the beautiful Paris shops, and even went to see the giant coliseum by moonlight. On the surface Sue seemed always to enjoy herself, and only Mary saw the wistful look that came into her eyes sometimes when there seemed no reason for it to be there. Then, before the girls could realize it, the Summer was over and it was time to say good-by to Europe.

The day they left on the big boat from Cherbourg, there was great excitement and both tears and laughter. Sue in her tragic young way faced the future sorrowfully. In her imagination she saw herself going back to a life of spinsterhood. She would take the business course in the girls' vocational school, find a secretarial position, and be one of that big army of maiden ladies living in a tiny apartment alone or with one of her school friends. Even seeing the Statue of Liberty in the busy New York harbor could not lighten the weight on her heart.

Registration day, and the girls' school was in a hubbub. More insistent than any of the Summer scandal was the report that there was a new accounting teacher, and he was knock-out looking—young and tall and blond.

"Oh, Sue, I can't wait for you to see him. He takes you back to the Greek-god days!" Janet, a vivid little flapper, beamed at Sue.

"Well, I'll be one girl in school who won't kneel down in worship," Sue said, looking out the window down the street. Heavens, girls were silly about good-looking men! Indifferently and a little disdainfully she joined the giggling line of pretty girls who were filing in at the door to present their cards of admission to the new teacher.

"Gracious, they're silly!" she repeated to herself, hearing their laughter and extravagant surmises. "He must be terribly conceited to come to a girls' school in the first place. I'm going by him without even looking up."

So, eyes down, she watched the heels of the girl in front of her, paused when it was time, and shoved her card ungraciously in the man's direction.

"Well, Sue," startled, she heard a man's deep familiar voice and looked up into a pair of shining eyes. Bob was smiling down on her audaciously, and with a love in his eyes that intoxicated her.

"You wouldn't in Yellowstone. Will you now?" he said softly.

Swiftly Sue made the never-to-be-excelled subject of school gossip. Without a word, her red hair flying, she threw her arms around the new teacher, and kissed him beautifully on the lips.

Delighted and horrified, the girls fled from the room like leaves scattered by wind, and Sue and Bob were left alone.

"Oh, Bob," Sue, laughing and blushing, said at last, "see what you made me do! We can never in the world face this school."

"Well, it wouldn't have been right for me to teach my wife, anyway," Bob grinned. "You see, I knew that you were here, and I hoped in my heart that you liked me better than I thought."

Martin—My dear, your butcher gives you short weight for your money.

Mrs. Martin—But consider, my dear, the long wait you give him for his.

Charity Begins at Home

By Monte Darrell

MR. GREEN was an old-fashioned man and he disapproved strongly of bobbed hair. In the course of his long life he had learned to accept many feminine innovations, but the sight of a woman with shorn tresses aroused as much of the savage in him as a mild-mannered man can possess, and he was willing to concede anything to his wife that would prevent her from giving in to the prevailing mode.

Mrs. Green allowed him to concede a good deal. He ate delicatessen food because his better half insisted that women were no longer household slaves; or else he fried his own bacon and eggs and ate in solitude. If his wife was late at a meeting held in the name of charity he left the hall light burning and went uncompromisingly to bed. And he tried to forget that he was a lonely man, with only a vanished dream for company.

Some people's idea of heaven is the possession of unlimited wealth. For others, power is the essential requirement; for still others, fine clothes and admiration of their fellowmen. Mr. Green harbored no such worldly ambitions. He merely wished to spend what remained of his life on the farm where he had been born and reared to raise a few vegetables, and keep a cow. He had spoken of this to his wife only once, a couple of years after their marriage, and she had wasted little sympathy on the project.

"A farm, where I can't take part in any social affairs—where I will have no poor to look after—Herbert, are you crazy?"

"Isn't it nicer," he had urged, "to look out on a pleasant little world of your own, where no one is poor or in misery—"

"And I'll look after the cow, I suppose. No, thank you. Women don't do that any more."

For a long time he regarded the room's four walls with dazed eyes. Then his face grew grim and thoughtful, and he, too, put on his hat and coat and departed. When he returned home he brought with him a suitcase, into which he packed his belongings.

Mrs. Green came back three hours later, laden with parcels from the delicatessen. She didn't notice her mate's grimly determined expression, being occupied with pleasant reflections of her own.

"We had an election of officers this afternoon," she informed him, with a triumphant smile, "and I'm the new president."

She waited for congratulations, but, as none came, went on, quite happily: "We've voted for a bazaar next month, the proceeds to go to the orphan asylum, and—"

A certain lack of warmth penetrated her consciousness just then, and she paused to look at him.

Mr. Green took advantage of the pause to say, "I want to tell you, if you can find time to listen, that I'm going home—to the farm. If you want to come along I'll stay a couple of days to help you pack the furniture. If not"—he pointed to his bulging suitcase—"I'm ready to leave tonight, and you'll have to earn your own living. Only please remember, if you decided to come, that from this day on bobbed hair and canned goods are barred from my house. Maybe you've heard, though you've never associated the phrase with yourself, that charity begins at home, and cooking a meal for one's husband occasionally is as good a form of charity as another."

Mrs. Green stared, dumbfounded. "Do you mean," she asked, trembling with rage, "do you mean—"

"You heard me," replied Mr. Green, with cool emphasis. "I meant every word."

So this was the result of her slaving and Mrs. Green brought herself up short. Had she really slaved? Hadn't she, rather, taken advantage of her husband's good nature to neglect him and their home? And what would their friends say? She knew how women talked. As soon as her back was turned they would whisper among themselves that they didn't blame her husband for deserting her. And in any case how could she get along alone—without an income?

"I'll—I'll go with you," she said, panic-stricken.

Herbert Green kissed her. "It won't be so bad—when you're used to it," he said, encouragingly.

Trouble Is, Some Go Too Fast.

Jazz Madness

By Margaret Taylor

SHE was only one of many salesgirls struggling with hat and coat in the locker room. Strangely enough she wasn't talking—just listening to the happy chatter.

"Tonight, the Palace Ballroom for me."

"Dinner and dance tonight. Me in this old rag, too!" But the voice made light of it.

Dance! Dance! Dance! Everyone was going dancing that evening but Doris.

As she walked home along Main street and the strains of a dance record floated out from a neighbor's house, something tugged and ached within her.

"Sleepy Time Gal,
Sleepy Time Gal
You're turning night into day,
You've danced the evening away."

Dance! Dance! Dance!

No wonder she went up the steps wearily. All at once she felt old.

During supper her mother asked, "Tom coming over tonight?"

What was that queer noise going on in her brain? Dance! Dance! Dance!

"I suppose so, mother." Resignation was in her tone. Not that Tom didn't matter, but just then Doris was thinking of her scarlet evening dress—thinking of it hungrily.

Yet all her yearning would not add one cent to Tom's scanty dividends from his deceased father's income, and Tom's every cent must go for his education in law school. And then he just didn't care for places of amusement.

As Doris pulled her felt hat down over her soft hair she pouted. The pout almost said, "I don't want to go out walking with Tom—just walking—and know that other people are dancing." Beside her Tom was waiting—as we always would wait—his hat in his hand and his heart in his eyes.

In the mirror Doris was pretty; lips that knew softness, eyes that knew warmth and hair that knew duskiness. She thought how the scarlet evening dress would accentuate her best points.

And then Doris gave way. "I just can't go, Tom," sinking into a chair. "I'm too tired."

Desperately Doris persisted. "Please go, Tom. I just don't want to do anything tonight."

She pretended not to see the hurt in his eyes—the look that usually sent all her mother heart out to him in compassion.

Dance! Dance! Dance! There was a hopeful note to the tom-tom beating in her brain. Mad exultation filled her, there was a possibility that she, too, would go dancing tonight. She remembered Leonard Lawson, a stepper and would-be friend.

Over the telephone she heard her own voice that tried to keep down its note of excitement.

"I'm blue tonight. Won't you come over and cheer me up?" She heard Leonard accept. Too good to be true. Because she knew very well Leonard would never stay in any girl's parlor for more than ten minutes.

Doris changed into the vivacious scarlet dress.

Leonard was ready to take her anywhere she suggested. "Something wild with dancing," Doris urged, eyes, toes and body strung for gayety.

Dance! Dance! Dance! The night club was just beginning to get crowded. The air was heavy with smoke and blatant with jazz, but it seemed a place of heaven to Doris. Oh, it it was heaven over and over and over again!

Sometimes Doris had brief qualms—one was when the orchestra sang "Baby Face." It brought up the vision of Tom's look. Still, she thought, Tom couldn't have been really hurt. Perhaps disappointed. He thought she was in bed.

The dance was in full swing, and Doris had the joy of knowing it would not end for hours. It was just at that moment she saw Tom, as he sat alone at a corner table.

Her confused thoughts trampled over one another. Dance! Dance! Dance! Had Tom felt that urge? With that sick look on his face it wasn't possible. That look of despair! She had thought to fool him—he whom love had made wise.

Doris prayed. "If only I can escape before—" She never finished, because just then Tom glanced up, saw the scarlet figure, and went a shade paler.

Well, nothing could be done now but put on a brave face. Besides, Doris did not want to leave in the midst of the dance. "If he's hurt it's his fault," she thought stubbornly. "He knows I like to go out and dance."

But her next glance stopped her self-justification. The waiter had just set down a bottle on Tom's table and Tom was uncorking it with an air of finality. In a flash Doris remembered that Tom's father had died of drunkenness. People had called him a "gay dog." What if Tom stayed away from places of amusement because he, too, was weak?

Forgetting everything but his need of her Doris flew to Tom's table.

"I—you—Leonard," she panted. Then a lie came to her rescue. "Leonard has insulted me. Take me home."

"All right, honey?" Such a sweet question. But Doris was dumb. Never would he know of that lie.

In Tom's mind was a twin determination: "Never shall she know from what she saved me."

"Look at me," Tom commanded in the manner of lovers since time immemorial. His smile was a trifle crooked from emotion.

Contentment overwhelmed her.

Dance! Dance! Dance! Where was the restlessness and jazz madness now? What was jazz, or a scarlet evening dress, when love beckoned?

Nestling against Tom's rough tobacco-scented shoulder with Tom's ineffable tenderness flooding her consciousness, Doris understood many things and marvelled:

The bride, a movie star, was leaving the church when the bridegroom said his wife's little daughter had cried during the ceremony.

"Yes, it's most peculiar," replied the bride; "she always does that when I'm married."

So Old and Rare

By Parke Whitney

IT was a beautiful piece of furniture, so old and so rare that it was no wonder dealers went berserk over it. But no matter how much they raved and cajoled Maria wouldn't sell it.

"I don't suppose you understand me when I say that saddle-back chair is jest as much a part of me as my breath," she would tell them, "but it is so. Ever since I can remember it's been in that corner of the kitchen. No, I wouldn't sell it unless I needed money something terrible. Then I got a customer for it—Mr. Miller, the postmaster. He's crazy after it and he's the honestest man in town. He'll give me what it's worth. How much is it worth, do tell?"

The prices they quoted her varied. Fifty dollars was the highest. Maria shrewdly guessed it was too little.

"Cheats!" she would say to herself, "robbers! If they say fifty it's easy worth a hundred. But I can trust Henry, if I ever have to sell it. He'll use me square."

For years, Maria turned away purchasers with the same story without its occurring to her that the time might come when she would need money "something terrible." One day the fact stared her in the face. The time had come when she must sell the saddle-back chair.

"I've come to sell you the saddle-back chair," she began, as she followed him into the kitchen. "You can have it any time now. I need money something terrible."

The man cleared his throat. "Well," he began, slowly, "of course I'll keep my word, but times ain't very good for the antique business. The war—"

"I know," acknowledged Maria, "but—how much will you give me?"

"Twenty-five dollars," he replied, "right in your hand this minute." He began to count out the money, taking it from an old wallet that he dragged from his pocket.

"Twenty-five dollars?" Maria looked dazed. "Why, I've been offered $50 for it time and time again. And you said—"

"I'd give you all it's worth. That's what I'm doing. And I'll go right up home with you now and get the chair."

There was no conversation on the way. Maria moved as in a trance, her eyes fixed before her. As Henry left the house with the chair, he saw her sink down beside the kitchen table and bury her head in her hands.

"Guess it upset her considerable, selling the chair," he thought.

Maria, left alone, did not lift her head. The fire in the stove went out, unheeded. Leaden dawn of a December morning still found her there, motionless. When the clock struck 6, however, she arose, put on her hat and coat and almost ran out into the street.

"I've got to have the chair back," she began directly. "I've got to. All night long the folks that used to sit in it have come back to haunt me. Even the cats that used to sleep in it have come mewing 'round me—"

She placed some bills on the table. "There's the money," she said. "I need it something terrible, but I can't get it by selling the chair. I'll lug it right back with me now. 'Tain't heavy."

"Wait," advised the man coldly. "Who said you could buy it back? Not me. 'Tain't mine anyway, now. I sold it to a man in Chester 15 minutes after I got home, by telephone. He's been itchin' to get his hands on it for years, and he's coming this morning to get it. Why, you couldn't scare up money enough to buy it back from him."

Maria's hands, which had seized eagerly on the arms of the old chair which stood by his window, dropped limply.

"Why," she faltered, "you said it warn't worth but $25—"

"It warn't—to me. But it's worth 10 times that to him. Here—take your money and go."

Maria put her hands behind her back. "Then you stole it from me," she flared, harshly. "Stole it jest as much as if you'd come into my house and sneaked it out when I warn't looking. You said it warn't worth but $25 and all the time you knew better. You're a thief and a liar—and all these years I've thought you an honest man."

"The bargain was a fair one," he returned, angrily. "Here's your money." He tried to cram the bills into her pocket, but she stepped back quickly and they fluttered to the floor.

He touched her gently. "Look here, Maria," he began, "everything's all right. If you'll feel any better about it, I'll give you $10 more—"

Her hand, as she had talked, had rested on the chair. Suddenly, he saw her head over and lay her wrinkled cheek against its quaint back. There were tears in her eyes that splashed down upon her thin fingers. Slowly she lifted the chair and strained it to her, as she would have embraced her mother, or her sister, or some of the dead who had once sat comfortably in its commodious seat.

There was the sound of cracking glass. Without warning and with super-human strength, she had hurled the chair toward the window, which stood open, for the man's stove smoked and he needed ventilation.

The chair caught a moment on the sill, but before he could reach it, it fell. When it struck the pavement below it splintered into hundreds of useless pieces.

Maria looked calmly down at the ruins. Then, stooping, she picked up the bills that lay scattered on the floor and put them neatly on the table.

Quietly she went out and shut the door.

He was a loyal little fellow and he wouldn't let anything said against parents go unchallenged.

One Sunday afternoon a boy friend said:

"Listen to your father snoring."

The House of Gold

By Claire Wesson

ANNA finished solitary luncheon and went through the process of cleaning the dishes. Afterward, she spent a restless half-hour with a newspaper that was nearly a week old. Then, through force of habit, she went to her bedroom and changed into a crisp linen dress. She didn't know why she bothered to change her clothes; nobody around cared how she looked, except Roger of course, but even Roger would be late that night. He said he would be detained at camp for several hours after the others had left, in order to go over some blueprints with the chief engineer.

Anna hated her surroundings with all the vehemence of her young heart. She hated the dingy little shack in which she lived; she hated the rough wilderness country, which stretched for miles about her cabin; and she hated the very railroad that Roger and his associates were building.

She missed the theaters, the shops and the coziness of her city home. Very often she was tempted to persuade Roger to break his despicable contract and return to town, where he could live like a gentleman, but he was so enthusiastic over the new railroad, so happy in his work, that Anna lost her courage and suffered in silence.

Anna gazed dismally from the window as she patted the linen dress into place. Mud and rocks! And blasting that rocked the valley and tortured her sensitive nerves!

The afternoon sun was growing low. Again its slanting rays played upon a little cottage, far in the distance, transforming it into a miniature palace of gold. It was the one bright spot in the whole panorama, and Anna took childish delight in looking for it every pleasant afternoon. She wondered, too, just what it was the sunbeams struck to cause such a glittering mirage. Was it a sun-parlor, or a green-house that caught and held the golden sheen? Today Anna decided to walk to the golden house and satisfy her curiosity.

Distance in the forest are apt to be longer than they appear to an untrained eye, and Anna was fatigued but triumphant when she reached her destination and stood before a cottage. She saw that near by there was a tiny, home-made conservatory.

An elderly lady, the mistress of the homestead, noted her interest and called pleasantly from the doorway. "Is there something I can do for you?"

"I'm just admiring your flowers," Anna replied, apologetically.

"Won't you admire them from the inside?" urged the woman. "I'm Mrs. Young, and from my husband's description of you, I guess you're Mrs. Blakely, wife of my husband's assistant. Do come in and talk awhile. You're just in time for a cup of tea."

The interior of the cottage had the charm of a modern, suburban bungalow, and Anna spoke freely of her woes as she sipped her tea.

"I know," sympathized Mrs. Young. "The young wives are always discontented until they get accustomed to these places. Haven't you some hobby you could cultivate to occupy your idle hours?"

"Oh, isn't there!" ejaculated Mrs. Young. "Tell them about the chipmunks that rummage the men's lunch boxes in search of goodies. Tell them about the columbine blossoms that nod and dance on that knoll over there. Write of the trout that dart to and fro in a crystal pool, not a quarter of a mile from here. Why, there are a hundred different subjects that would appeal to the honest heart of a child! And your cabin, my dear," continued Anna's hostess, "have you done anything to beautify that since your arrival?"

Anna shook her head.

"Well, you get busy and put a few knick-knacks around, and see how tickled your Roger will be," advised Mrs. Young. "My husband has been a civil engineer for over 30 years, and during that time I've camped in some pretty rough places, but I've always managed to keep smiling, and I've tried to give him an attractive home to live in. Do you know, I believe that, away down in their hearts, men love beautiful things just as much as we do!"

Anna had found a sincere friend in Mrs. Young, and she felt quite gay when she bade her good-by. Several days later she made a mysterious visit to the city. Upon her return to camp she bribed the driver of the supply truck to meet her at the station and to say nothing of the numerous boxes he transported to her home.

One box contained Anna's portable typewriter and a quantity of white paper. Another held yards of gayly-colored cretonnes for her windows, and a roseate shade for the kerosene tablelamp. A third was packed with pictures, sofa-pillows and narcissus bulbs in lustrous, old-blue bowls. And, finally, there was a phonograph and a dozen records of the newest song hits.

How Anna's nimble fingers raced against time! In a few short hours she had changed the sombre little cabin into an abode of comfort and cheerfulness. When she glimpsed Roger coming up the path she started the phonograph and waited, eagerly. Her reward shone in her husband's eyes.

"It's wonderful, honey," he exclaimed with keen delight. "How come such grandeur?"

"I'm just trying to make a home for you, Roger," said Anna, softly, "a little house of gold!"

"Well, it's wonderful," repeated Roger, "and now I have news for you. The boss and his missus want us to have supper with them some night next week. I guess I fit pretty well with the chief, yes?"

Lady (to loafer who has asked for money)—You'll spend it, I suppose, instead of giving it to your wife.

Ask Permission To Increase Millage

(International News Service)

MERCER, Pa., March 8.—Two petitions of Mercer county township asking permission of the court to increase their road millage from 10 to 15 mills this year to pay for roads already built or to finish out programs were filed yesterday.

They are of the supervisors of Jefferson and Delaware townships and are two of ten petitions of the 32 townships in the county that have been filed this year.

Failure of the state to come thru with funds and the county financial embarrassment puts the expense up to the townships. The money is wanted for ash and slag road building which was carried on by a payment of one-third each by the state, county and township.

The human race is like the human body, except that about 60 per cent of the whole would rank as tonsils.

There have been very successful revival services held this winter at the Valley Way school house, resulting in a number of conversions. It is expected the Rev. F. M. Wagner will preach next Sunday morning and hold a communion service. Mr. Wagner will preach in the evening at the East New Castle mission.

Mrs. Frank M. Hay of Gardner entertained the class of girls which she teaches at the Gardner Sunday school at the Schumaker home last Saturday afternoon. There were 14 present in all and some lively games were played and Mrs. Hay served dainty sweetmeats and the meeting was greatly enjoyed by all.

March 18 will be observed as an all day rally at Valley Way school house. A number of ministers of different denominations are expected to be present and take part in the services.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Madory of New Brighton and Mr. and Mrs. Finnegan of Youngstown have all been recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Anderson of Gardner.

Miss Rachel Rhodes of Pittsburgh, who is a student at Grove City college, spent the week-end with her uncle and aunt, Attorney and Mrs. C. W. Fenton of Wilkinson stop.

Mrs. T. W. Dickson and daughter, Mrs. E. O. Alexander of Gardner, spent Wednesday in Pittsburgh.

On March 2, 32 members of the East New Castle grange held a delightful surprise party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John J. King of Shenango stop in honor of their 35th wedding anniversary, and also of the birthday of Mr. King. The guests came laden with gifts and baskets of good things for a delicious lunch. Warm congratulations and good cheer were the order of the evening. Clever games were played, social chat was enjoyed and all present had a royal good time. The affair was well planned and was a complete surprise to Mr. and Mrs. King, who are grateful to all the friends who gave such evidence of kindly appreciation. Those present were as follows: Mr. and William Curry, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Aiken, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Hartzell, Mr. and Mrs. William Sankey, Mr. and Mrs. Edward McConahy and son Junior, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Reno, Mr. and Mrs. Howard King, Mr. and Mrs. William Hanna and son Jack, Mrs. Frank Lowry, Mrs. Mollie Crable, Mrs. Magdalene Zurasky and daughter Mildred, Julius Zurasky, William Geigher, Mrs. Ernest Cowly and son Ernest, Floyd Geigher, George and Sanford Crable and Mr. and Mrs. John J. King.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard Kennedy of Gardner have been assisting with the music at the revival services which are being conducted by Rev. Thomas Houston at the Center U. P. church. Mr. Kennedy is a fine violinist and Mrs. Kennedy is an excellent soprano soloist. Miss Isabel Zehner has been active in securing singers and musicians to add interest to the meetings.

Mrs. S. H. Norris, who has been suffering for several days with something like rheumatism, is now much improved and able to be about.

Naughty plays are losing popularity—not because people are getting better, but because nothing is appetizing if you get it for supper every night.

One reason why villages have fewer scandals and killings than cities have is because Central doesn't tell all she knows.

DYSKINESIA

Dyskinesia or habitual constipation wrecks more health every day than any other single thing. It saps strength and vitality, causes serious diseases of the stomach, kidneys and heart, brings on high blood pressure and makes you old years before your time.

The insidious condition of Dyskinesia is the result of our abnormal habits of living which place too great a strain upon the vital organs, especially the liver. The liver becoming weak or sluggish fails to supply the bowels enough bile. The bowels "tie up" and the poisonous waste retained affects the whole system including the vital organs.

The liver occasionally needs a little help, and there's nothing better for this, as medical men now know, than a little ox gall. Ox gall is a remarkable natural stimulant for the human liver, promoting its normal active functioning, so essential to internal cleanliness and health. Dioxol tablets are genuine ox gall in dainty and tasteless form, each tablet representing 10 drops of pure ox gall. To be sure of getting the genuine ox gall, be sure of getting Dioxol. They cost less than 2c each at good druggists, and a few soon tell.

Free Test Take this ad to the druggist named below and he will give you a free sample of Dioxol tablets. Try them yourself. See the splendid, quick results. One trial of Dioxol and you will want a full package!

Hot cabs—sudden draughts—muscular strain

But no rheumatism for these 249 locomotive firemen and engineers

"ONCE a railroad man—always a railroad man," they say. There's a fascination about the life that holds a man, once he's started on it.

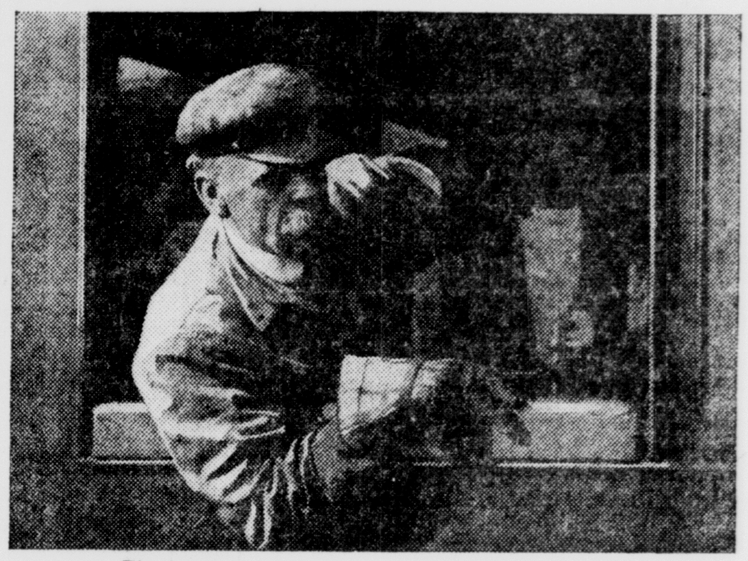

No easy berth either—whether you drive the engine or fire the boilers. It's a tax on the strongest muscles, and you're always in danger of catching a chill from the extremes of heat and cold going in and out of the cab.

We went right to some locomotive firemen and engineers and asked them these questions. 249 whom we asked said, "We use Sloan's."

The standby of workers everywhere

Ask any group of active men or women these same questions and two out of three of them will give you the same answer. Sloan's is the best thing you can use to keep muscles supple under the hardest work, to kill the pain of overstrain or small injuries, to prevent colds and rheumatism.

This locomotive engineer is one of 249 railroad men who told us of the protection that Sloan's gives against rheumatism, colds, muscular pain

Read this letter from a fireman on the Union Pacific:

"I am a fireman on Union Pacific R. R. I was taken sick in Maryville, Kansas, and I worked back to Kansas City with pains shooting all over my back. As soon as I got to Kansas City I got a bottle of your wonderful liniment and started to put it on. It did me a whole lot of good, and, for me, I wouldn't be without a bottle at any time. I carry a bottle in my grip all the time on road. After each trip I put some Sloan's on." C. R. Ellis, 3250 Gillham Road, Kansas City, Mo.

* * *

The minute you apply it you begin to get relief. And it doesn't just deaden the pain temporarily—it gets rid of it. It stimulates the circulation, breaks up congestion, clears out germs and poisons, and the pain stops because the cause is removed.

Get a bottle today and have it on hand. You never can tell when it may save you hours of agony—days of lost time. A bottle that lasts a long time is only 35 cents and you can get it at all druggists. Use it for:

Rheumatism, Sciatica, Lumbago, Neuralgia, Lame muscles, Stiff neck, Colds and congestions, Sprains and bruises

Here's what the company doctor of one of the big railroads says of Sloan's: "People whose work exposes them to strain or to damp and cold usually suffer from a good deal of muscular soreness. We find that Sloan's gives them quick, positive relief."

VALIANT BATTLE TO SAVE GIRL'S LIFE FAILS

(International News Service)

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., March 8.—Medical science and the tireless efforts of city firemen, who have pumped oxygen into the lifeless lungs of 10-year-old Eleanore Elliott of Bloomington, failed Wednesday afternoon. The girl died while unconscious.

For three weeks Eleanore had been a victim of sleeping sickness, according to physicians. Three days ago her lungs failed to function.

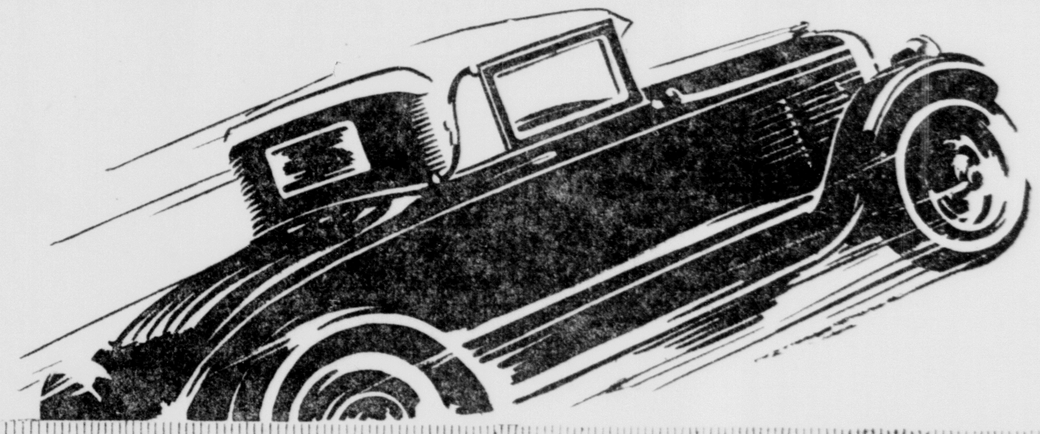

Firemen were hastily summoned, and working in relays night and day, kept her alive with pulmotors. Her heart weakened Wednesday afternoon under the terrific strain and Eleanore died.

To A Million Boys and Girls Between 17 and 70

The Automobile That Talks The Language That Only They Can Understand

FOR a million boys and girls, between seventeen and seventy, Reo builds the Wolverine.

For them, especially, because Reo knows that they want to swing up to country club porches with the dash of cavalry captains.

For them, especially, because Reo knows how they must be growing tired of seeing and driving just nickel-plate—just fancy headlights—just two-tone color jobs.

So Reo builds the Wolverine to talk the language that all true boys and girls can understand—language dealing with the important business of getting somewhere.

The Reo Wolverine steals its way into your heart as a star halfback steals his way into the heart of the coach. It starts fast—goes fast—has a wonderful change of pace—and it gets somewhere.

Yes, Reo builds the Wolverine to be the automobile all boys and girls have wished for.

Builds it to be an automobile such as no one ever expected to drive into his or her own garage for so low an F. O. B. price as $1195 or $1295.

Try it out—over any roads—in any company. You'll be very much surprised.

ongressmen For Many Years Have Fought Idea Of Navy Yard Abandoning

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Politicians on capitol hill were still staggering around in dazed circles today over the spectacle of Mayor James J. Walker, of New York, urging abandonment of the Brooklyn navy yard.

Ever since America had a navy and consequently, navy yards, politicians of all faiths, breeds, and parties have maintained a ceaseless vigil over the navy yards in their constituencies and fought every threat to move them. Walker was the first politician, high, low or in-between to recommend that abandonment of a navy yard in his own home town.

"It's that much dead waterfront," Walker told the New York delegation in congress, during his brief but breezy visit to the capitol. "We are becoming more and more limited every day in our docking facilities. Just think of the dockage space we'd gain if we got rid of the navy yard."

When the New York congressmen, following their traditional custom, voiced protests against any such precedent—shattering action, Walker observed: "Oh, we'd turn that dockage right over to commercial enterprises, which would employ thousands of men where only hundreds are now employed. Think of the expansion it would mean to our harbor facilities."

The outraged congressmen kept protesting, one speaking of the protests certain to arise from the navy yard workers.

Big Navy-ite Shifts

Captain Richard Drace White, naval attache at the Paris United States embassy, who advocated a big navy in a Thanksgiving Day speech, has been ordered to sea duty, July 1, after three years of land duty. Captain White says the transfer is in the normal course of periodical shifting and has no connection with the speech.

Re-Arrest Miners In Recent Slaying Of Non-Union Worker

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, March 8.—Detectives re-arrested Alexander Mimon and Louis Brainzette, Russellton union mine pickets, today in connection with the slaying of Mike Yarsavage, 38, beaten to death and his body abandoned in a Rural Ridge cemetery.

Five youths were arrested with Mimon and Brainzette. The latter two explained to detectives that they had interrogated Yarsavage but had allowed him to go free, whereupon five youths set upon him and beat him to death.

Their re-arrest resulted from an investigation which detectives say showed they signaled to the five youths after releasing Yarsavage, a non-union miner.

Thacker of the High school committee on curriculum and R. G. Leslie of the elementary school committee for curriculum were also present with the general committee.

The Lincoln-Garfield school was chosen because it was one of the largest schools where the platoon system is being used in its purity, the Arthur McGill school being the only other place where the platoon is not combined with other systems.

The program given for the committee to observe consisted chiefly of two small plays, a Greek play. "Glimpses of Old Athens' which illustrated lessons in Greek history and "Making the Flag" which illustrated the making of the first American flag and its meaning.

Asks Change In Proposed Location Of Dairy Plant

City Planning Commission Asks Location In Residence Area Be Abandoned

For some time past, objections have been received by the city planning commission, also by city council, from property owners of the Mercer street and Fairfield avenue districts regarding the report that L. W. Chapman proposed locating a milk depot and plant just over the city line in Neshannock township at Mercer street and Fairfield avenue.

The complaint was that it was establishing in a high class residential district a class of building not permitted where zoning regulations are in control and that it would mean a tendency to reduce the value of property in that section.

City council and the city planning commission have found themselves without authority in the matter, because it is outside the city, so yesterday at the meeting of the city planning commission resolutions were adopted, appealing to Mr. Chapman to refrain from any action that would be detrimental to the interests of so many property owners.

The resolution adopted by the planning commission follows:

WHEREAS, A number of property owners have appealed to this commission to use such power as it may possess to prevent the location by L. W. Chapman of a milk depot in the vicinity of Mercer and Fairfield avenues, just over the city line in Neshannock township. It is unfortunate that the New Castle zoning ordinance cannot apply in this case.

RESOLVED, That the city planning commission, whose jurisdiction extends three miles beyond the city line in all directions, and therefore covers the site mentioned, hereby goes on record as entirely disapproving of the location of a milk depot at the point mentioned, for the reason that it is entirely unsuited to a high class residential district of this character; that it will tend to lower the high standard the property owners of this neighborhood are endeavoring to establish; that it is entirely contrary to the plans and efforts of this commission, who have for years been giving their time without compensation in furtherance of plans for a greater and better New Castle.

RESOLVED, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to L. W. Chapman, with appeal to him that he cooperate with this body in their public work for the benefit of the community, and that to this end and for this purpose it is suggested that he abandon the proposed site for a milk depot.

DANDRUFF
A Sure Way to End It

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

AMERICAN INDIAN AMERICANIZES FAST

(International News Service)

OLD TOWN, Me., March 8.—The American Indian is fast becoming Americanized!

Young suffragettes of the Penobscot Indian Tribe, who had strived to upset traditions by gaining an equal vote with the braves in the government of the tribe, had been defeated today by the braves and some of the squaws.

From the time when the Indian roamed supreme over the land, the braves held solemn pow-wows around the camp fires, and the women had not been expected to do more than the work. Now they can still continue doing that.

"I have laid down a basis between my wife and myself, and said, 'There must be a certain amount of hair in this house, and if you shingle I grow a beard'. Up to now that has been a sufficient deterrent. It may not be forever, and in that case County Dublin will have a bearded member of Parliament." This was the declaration made by Major Bryan Cooper, a member of the Free State Parliament, during a recent address to students of Rathmines Technical Institute at Belfast, Ireland.

Reveal G. O. P. Committee Had Huge Deficit

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 8—The Republican national committee had a deficit after the 1920 campaign of between $600,000 and $800,000, James Patter, the Chicago "wheat king", testified today at the senate inquiry into disposition of the Continental Trading company's $3,080,000 Liberty bond "slush fund".

Patten told of advancing $25,000 to the late Fred Upham, Chicago treasurer of the Republicans, to pay off a part of this deficit and receiving in return $25,000 in Liberty bonds. Patten gave the senate a list of the bonds.

Committee members said the bonds given Patten were part of those that Harry F. Sinclair gave Will H. Hays, Republican national chairman in the 1920 campaign.

Recalls Monitor

One of the few men living who recall the day of the historic Monitor-Merrimac battle, the first sea fight between completely armored craft, is Captain James H. Carey, 89, of Camden, N. J. He fought in the "Cheesebox on a Raft" battle of the Civil war, March 9, 1862.

Bad Check Passers Work Here Again Police Chief Warns

Chief of Police C. C. Horner stated this morning that bad check passers were busy again in this city and that it would be well for the merchants and others, to be very careful in cashing checks, especially of persons unknown to them.

This morning, a local florist, was visited by a woman, rather shabby in appearance. She purchased flowers valued at $4 and directed that they be delivered to a certain address on Highland avenue.

She presented a check for $12 in payment and signed "Mrs. M. Nelson" and received $8 in change. When the check was presented for payment at the bank on which it was issued, it was found that there were no funds deposited there in that name.

Later it was discovered that the address to which the flowers were to be sent was the number of a vacant lot on Highland avenue.

Chief Horner states that the very fact that a person would make a purchase and then present a check for much more than the goods purchased, should be sufficient warning to the merchants or others to whom they are presented that there is something wrong.

There is only one way to prevent loses of this kind, according to Chief Horner, and that is for the merchant or others asked to cash checks, to investigate thoroughly before hand, instead of cashing the checks and then investigating.

Lewis Charges Southern Mines Are Armed Camps

President Of Miners Continues Testimony Before Senate Probers

By KENNETH R. CLARK
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Southern non-union soft coal fields are virtual armed camps controlled by private police, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, told the Senate Interstate Commerce committee today.

He said that coal in West Virginia and Kentucky was being mined through the use of machine guns and "the armed force of private unions of the operators."

"Hungry wives go to the mine pits and wait until their husbands send up a load of coal in order to get credit at company stores to buy beans and bacon and coffee to feed their families," he said. "They live from hand to mouth."

Turning to the operators seated in the rear of the room, Lewis, raising his voice, warned that the "same inhuman misery" faced Pennsylvania and Ohio if this drive "to degrade the miners keeps on."

Officers Discover Still In Operation On Moravia St.

Charles Hannon, who conducts a tin shop at 925 Moravia street, was arrested this morning by Detective C. G. Logan and Officer Thomas Lynch, as the result of the finding in his place of business, a small still in operation, also about a gallon of finished liquor, according to their report.

A charge of violating the Snyder Act has been made against him in the office of Alderman William E. Marshall by County Detective William Fleming. Hannon gave bail in the sum of $1,500 for his appearance at a hearing to be held Friday afternoon.

Officers Fleeger and Walls were going along Moravia street early this morning, when they caught the smell of liquor in the making.

Finally they discovered steam coming from a small stack at the tin shop of Mr. Hannon. They finally managed to climb up and soaking their hands in the steam, discovered that they had found the right place.

The county detective was notified and an investigation developed the fact that there was a small galvanized still filled with mash in operation, they report.

It was the steam from a pipe or stack running from this still to the open air that had resulted in the discovery by Officers Fleeger and Walls.

Last year the convention was held in Steubenville, Ohio. It will be remembered that the 332nd Infantry was stationed in Italy during the World War.

PYGMY HUNTERS ON WAY

The expedition that plans to film the pygmies of Papua, New Guinea, has just struck inland from Port Moresby, the capital of Papua. It is headed by Alexander Macdonald, who, two years ago, found their village. Macdonald and his party also expect to bring photographs, at least of the inscriptions on the pygmies' "history stones"—huge slabs of engraved rock, which, the priests say, tell how the pygmies are descendants of the bird men, who peopled the earth when it was young. Macdonald's men are the only Europeans who have seen these little people.

SLIGHT ACCIDENT

Harold Shuller, R. D. 9, reported today that while driving the car of Catherine Russell, east on Croton avenue, and about to make a turn into Martin street, that a car bearing Pennsylvania License X 10-355 came up in the rear and struck and damaged his car.

GREAT TOURIST SEASON SEEN

New Castle To Benefit Greatly By Increased Travel Says Kincaid

"The Castleton is in excellent shape, and I am much pleased with the performance of the staff. It has proven that it can make money with only 50 per cent occupancy, while other houses in the chain must do 65 per cent to break even. This shows that the project is well equipped and soundly financed, and it will only be a matter of months, I am sure, before The Castleton will be crowded to the limit."

With these words General J. Leslie Kincaid, president of the American Hotels corporation and the United Hotels company expressed his faith in his manager, John L. Slack, and forecast a future for The Castleton. Mr. Kincaid is inspecting The Castleton.

"This summer, I am sure that The Castleton will be doing a 90 per cent business, for it is located on the newly opened Ben Franklin highway, which leads directly to Atlantic City and to the gateway to the Shenandoah valley. Think of the crowds of tourists that will surely come through New Castle! And think of New Castle being the largest city on the highway between Philadelphia and Peoria, Ill."

The General expressed himself as being pleased to see that the store rooms on the lobby floor of The Castleton were filling up.

"Prospects for tourist business this summer are even better than ever before," concluded the General. "It is the opinion of the hotel men that an increase in tourists to Europe always means an increase in local touring. Another thing which tends toward this belief is the increase in automobiles.

"Pennsylvania will profit greatly by the activities of the tourists due to the efforts of the state Chamber of Commerce and the Tourists Bureau of the Pennsylvania Hotel Men's association."

General Kincaid also stated that the American corporation had purchased another New York hotel, the Esplanade, early this week.

Children Must Pay Rerservation Fee

Books Reserved At Library Will Be Kept For Two Days It Is Announced

Children who have books reserved for them at the New Castle Public Library now must pay a fee of two cents, as is done in the adult department, it was announced this morning.

During book week, to stimulate interest in reading, the practice of paying a fee in the children's department was discontinued, but because of the extra expense that is incurred to the library, officials feel that the fee must be resumed. Books which are on reserve will be held for two days after the cards are sent out.

POLICE DEPARTMENT ORDERS NEW SIGNS

Council today gave Police Chief C. C. Horner permission to order several dozen new signs which will prescribe where and how long automobiles can be parked. NEW CASTLE HIGH DEFEATS MONACA 37-17

Locals Advance To Semi-Final Round In League Tourney

New Castle High School Basketball Team Too Strong For Monaca High

By "BUGS" WALTHER

UNCOVERING an offense that bewildered their opponents from the start, the New Castle High school team, winners of Section III, advanced to the semi-final round of the W. P. I. A. L. basketball tourney by a stinging 37 to 17 defeat of Monaca High last night. The game was played at the University of Pittsburgh stadium floor.

Monaca High, presented with the Section IV title when a Woodlawn player was found ineligible, found the going mighty severe on the huge Pitt playground. It was a game in which a good big team was pitted against a fast small outfit and the good big boys just naturally strode wherever they pleased. The valley quintet put up a fine game against the W. P. I. A. L. champions of last year, but they lacked the class and smoothness that characterizes the red and black team.

New Castle High looked the part of champions last night, as they displayed a marked improvement in their offensive play, and with Monaca considerably off color in their shooting, the locals' defense did not have much chance to function.

Reider Leads Attack

Captain Paul Reider, with four baskets, led the attack for the locals, with Sillman and Cuba following in his wake. Ostrosky, the stellar red and black guard, secured a lone field goal, but made good on five out of six foul attempts. Findlay Clarke, the star Monaca forward, was about the whole works for the valley combination, this youngster caging three baskets and a foul for seven of the points.

New Castle jumped into the lead in the first two minutes of play when Tony Ostrosky dropped two foul tries, and Sillman, after dribbling down the court, dropped the first field goal of the battle. Ford, the Monaca center, annexed the first field goal for the opponents, and the score was 4 to 2 in favor of New Castle. Paul Cuba caged a foul and a field goal almost in succession and New Castle's stock went soaring. Reider broke loose and sank a field goal from the center of the court and New Castle had a commanding lead of 9 to 2. Findlay Clarke, the Monaca forward, gave his team five more points before the quarter was ended on two field goals and a foul. Reider caged a field goal and Ostrosky dropped another foul. New Castle led at the end of the first quarter, 12 to 7.

Locals Gain Fine Lead

The locals continued their offensive drive in the second period and after D. Clarke had dropped a foul try, Captain Reider put New Castle on easy street with a pair of field goals in rapid order and Sillman duplicated on a field goal from the center of the floor. Findlay Clarke tallied again for the Monaca crew and Cuba and Sillman tallied for New Castle before the end of the second quarter.

At the end of the first half the New Castle team held a very encouraging lead of 22 to 10. It was quite plain that Monaca High was having difficulty with the hugeness of the court and many of their shots went for naught or did not even touch the bankboards. New Castle rang up nine field goals in the first half of the game, against four for the Section IV champions.

Third Quarter Slow.

Both teams slowed up considerably in the third period and but nine points were scored, with New Castle being outscored for the only time during the game. Ford gave Monaca two more points on a field goal under the basket and Reider added another foul to the New Castle quota.

Ostrosky sank one from the side of the court and D. Clarke retaliated for Monaca. With the New Castle team leading 25 to 14, Captain Paul Reider was ejected from the fray via the personal foul rule and Kulich took the floor for New Castle. The New Castle leader played a strong game and although seated on the bench for the greater part of the second half was the high scorer of the game.

The end of the third quarter found the New Castle team leading by a score of 26 to 15.

Subs Get Chance.

At the start of the fourth period Cotter replaced F. Clarke in the Monaca lineup. Alexander gave New Castle two more points via a field goal from the center of the floor and Cotter added a foul on the Monaca total. Alexander was ejected from the game via the four personal fouls rule and McClelland went in for the New Castle pivot man. Clarke replace Cotter and Cotter took Tarmina's place in the Monaca lineup. McClelland and Kulich tallied baskets for New Castle that sent the New Castle total to double that of Monaca high. Thomas replaced Sillman and Johnson replaced Kulich in the New Castle lineup. Ostrosky made good on a pair of fouls and Johnson dropped a foul point. Richards replaced Cuba for New Castle. With New Castle leading 35 to 17 in the final minute of play Thomas sank a field goal from the side of the floor for the last points of the battle. The game ended 37 to 17.

The summary:

New Castle—37.		Monaca—17.

Cuba	F.	D. Clarke

Fitzgerald To Battle Osborn

CONRAD MATCHED TO MEET KIRKPATRICK

Two zealous sons of the Art of Spreading Ears will mix Monday night at the Old Armory in the main bout of six rounds. They are Freddy Fitzgerald of Youngstown and Zivie Osborne of Cleveland and no fan should find fault with the pugilistic menu after it has been spread by Promoter Bill Jolly.

A report has drifted here that not so long ago Osborne gave the Youngstown boy a pasting and since then it has been somewhat difficult to arrange a second meeting. However, Jolly succeeded in doing the "impossible" yesterday and the lightweights are in training and preparing for a gruelling bout.

Knocked Out Mickie

Freddy Fitzgerald not so long ago bumped off Mickie Solomon in a couple of rounds at Youngstown and since then some of the boys have been somewhat anxious to see Freddy in action. A few nights ago he defeated Young Rudy and according to reports he is the best lightweight in this section.

Each of the lightweights will receive two extra percent of the gross receipts for staging their fight here instead of Youngstown. This means considerable but Jolly stated today that he does not care if he doesn't net a dollar's profit if he can give the fans the kind of a bout they like and it looks as though he is on the road to do so.

Conrad versus Kirkpatrick

In addition to the Osborn-Fitzgerald bout, he has arranged for Eddie Conrad of Cleveland to strut his stuff again with Jimmie Kirkpatrick of Ellwood City. Conrad won at Lorain a few nights ago and his hand, fractured here with Kirkpatrick is in good shape and he is anxious to fight the Ellwoodian.

Their first fight resulted in a lot of class and hard punching. Unlike most lightweights Conrad can box and hit. Kirkpatrick is picking up fast as a boxer and has a hard sock. He floored Conrad in their first fight and to make it a case of tit for tat, Conrad caught him on the jaw and sprawled Kirkpatrick for a count of nine.

So far the ringmaster has not completed his preliminary battles but he said today that there will be no palookas selected to display the Art of Busting Noses and Spreading Ears. "I'm paying real money and any bozo who thinks he can collect without showing something has his mind on the canvas and not the decision," said Bill today.

New Castle To Play Monessen-Fifth Ave. Winner On Tuesday

New Castle High school basketball team, winners of Section III and semi-finalists in the W. P. I. A. L. tournament, will play the winner of the Monessen-Fifth Avenue High game at the Pitt Stadium floor next Tuesday evening, March 13.

The Monessen High team in the first round of the tourney handed Sewickley High a neat lacing, 47 to 33, and looked mighty impressive in their triumph. It is believed in Pittsburgh that Monessen High will likely upset Fifth Avenue.

The locals are emulating their work of last year in the W. P. I. A. L. tourney. Ranked as outsiders and not given any chance to cop the honors last year, the red and black team, led by Captain "Baldy" McGrath, overcame every obstacle in their path and carried through to the championship. In building up their right to rule the western half of Pennsylvania's scholastic basketball world, the locals defeated Scottdale, Duquesne and Corapolis.

SORDS POINTS

Athletics' Outfield Most Brilliant One In Big Leagues

Last spring, old Connie Mack, the tall mentor of the Philadelphia Athletics, thought he had gathered together enough material with which to cop the American League pennant only to have the Yankees make a farce out of the race and his efforts.

But Mack hasn't given up. With his greatly strengthened outfield, and bolstered pitching staff, Connie Mack hopes to give the Yankees a more spirited chase this season.

The Mackian outfield is a veteran one. With the signing of Tris Speaker and the return of Ty Cobb to the fold, the A's have the distinction of being the only baseball team to unite the efforts of these two luminaries.

Cobb and Speaker were the super-outfielders of baseball and reigned together for a dozen or so years until Babe Ruth mounted to and surpassed their level of fame. Both men have passed the double-decade mark in baseball service but each might still have a good year left in their systems.

The third party to the A's stellar triumvirate is Al Simmons, who was edged out of last year's batting title by Harry Heilmann, bi-ennial batting boss of the junior circuit. Harry wins the title every other year and last year was his year to cop.

Simmons was batting .393 when he was forced out by his injuries in mid-season. He was going great at the time. When he returned to the line-up Sept. 6, he hit at a .382 clip but that wasn't enough for he was nosed out by Heilmann on the last day of the season when the Detroit ace collected seven hits out of nine trips to the plate during a double-header finale.

In addition to this stellar trio of Cobb, Speaker and Simmons, Connie Mack has a flock of other capable outfielders in the southern training camp.

One of the best of this reserve brigade is Bing Miller, acquired by Connie from St. Louis for Pitcher Sam Gray in one of the big trades of the off-season.

Then there is Bevo LeBourveau who hit a .346 clip with the American Association champs, the Toledo Mudhens, last year. And also George "Mule" Haas, purchased from Atlanta, where he hit .323, and Miller Harris, a free agent.

Oswald Orwoll, a pitcher- outfielder, one of that rare and useful clan of which Babe Ruth was once a member, can also be depended upon and for whom Connie paid a large price. Orwoll cracked the sphere at a .370 pace last season with Milwaukee.

Westminster Meets Geneva And Grove City

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, March 8.—After a week end rest following the victory over Thiel at Greenville Friday night Coach John Lawther's Westminster court team has been spending strenuous practice sessions in an effort to get into shape for the Geneva game at Beaver Falls tonight and the closing game of the season against Grove City here Saturday night.

Three of the first string men are in poor physical condition for the last two games so it is possible that Lawther will have to rely upon some of his lanky substitutes to fill the berths.

The Grovers were successful in downing the Titans early in the season by a 26-24 count and Lawther is gloomy concerning the outcome of Saturday's game.

A victory by Westminster would give the United Presbyterians the small college non-conference title to add to the laurels already won, but it is unlikely that the Grovers can be taken in.

Falcon Midgets Defeat Ramblers

The Falcon Midgets added another win to their long list of victories when they defeated the strong Rambler Midget aggregation in a recent contest by a score of 21-15.

The game was hardfought throughout, but the defense displayed by the victors was too strong for the Ramblers. The score at the end of the first half stood in favor of the Falcons and from that time on they kept on the long side of the count.

Dudek, Noga and Kolodjeski were the main cogs for the victors, while the work of Neyman and Taylor was outstanding for the losers.

This marks the 13th victory for the undefeated Falcons and the boys hope that their streak of triumphs will continue.

The summary:

Falcon Midgets 21		Rambler Mid. 15
Kolodjeski	F.	J. Riley
Noga	F.	Jones
Golba	C.	Taylor
Dudek	G.	Nayman
Szammeny	C.	Riley

Fouls: Falcons, 1 out of 6; Ramblers, 1 out of 8.

The summary:

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

By ED. FRITZ

Apparently Soothing Syrup Eddie who broadcasts for Bill Jolly, the ringmaster of the Old Armory is in a vexed mood. He received a lithograph a few days ago from the manager of Eddie Andrews and the poster had his name under the list of boys Eddie Andrews has beaten. "I hit that guy in Erie and he didn't awaken until the train pulled into the station at Toledo" bellowed Eddie somewhat affronted by the litho sheet.

Someone asked Eddie why he doesn't go back in 'harness' and do a little fighting. "You know" said Weygant, "I would like to fight some of these guys but I'm afraid that I'm getting too old." Think of a boy of 25 or 26 and training every day saying that. Only one fellow ever hurt him and that was Danny Kramer. Kramer kocked him out but the punch Danny landed to the stomach would have knocked out any opponent.

Wouldn't be the least surprising were Al Taylor of Elyria and Carl Cavelli to fight here one week from Monday night providing they wish to accept the terms of Promoter Bill Jolly. "I'll give Cavelli a chance anytime he shows a disposition to accept my terms" said Jolly. Taylor is the boy who flattened Babe Rivers.

McGraw Not Worried Over Possibilities For Coming Season

Andy Cohen Seems To Have Second Base Job Cinched, Says Leader

Veteran Pitching Staff, Just A Little Weak In Catching Department

By DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor International News Service

AUGUSTA, Ga., Mar. 8.—Being a congenial ignoramus, I asked John McGraw about his second base problem and it wasn't until then that I discovered that he had none at all. Sorry, you know, but he was all out of them just now.

This made be feel so badly that I up and asked him whether he took me for a buttonhole maker. He didn't say that he did but the worst of it was he didn't say that he didn't. In fact, his subsequent observations rather pointedly intimated that he thought the garment trade was somewhere in the neighborhood on its annual outing.

Wasn't Hornsby a second baseman? Yes, he was inclined to believe Hornsby was. Hadn't he been with the club last year? Yes, he seemed to remember a Hornsby last year; come to think of it, the name had a faintly familiar ring. The trouble was, it seemed, that John's mind was so completely occupied with Cohens and Otts and Reeses and a lot of real good ball players that he had no time to think about Hornsby.

Have No Problems

"Problems?" He inquired in that tone of pained surprise one uses when the bus boy serves the soup on one's pants leg. "The New York Giants have no problems. We had a club in 1927 that almost was good enough to steal the pennant in the closing weeks of the race and we have fewer questions to answer this year than we did last.

"Second base? Kindly have some deference for my cracked lip. Andy Cohen has done everything we have asked of him and we have asked him everything we knew. He is first class infielder, a natural second baseman, covers ground, pivots well and gets the ball away rapidly. He is a pinch hitter; that is he doesn't hit them far, but he does hit them safely.

"As to that, I would put Melvin Ott in there tomorrow with every confidence. Just a natural ball player, you know. In fact, I'll guarantee that, out of a hundred balls hit to him, he will come up with more than Jackson and Lindstrom.

"We are sure of our catching now. Our pitching no longer is questionable. We have a far better outfield, with much greater reserve strength. In fine, the Giants are a better ball club and, if you don't believe it, wait until the pay-off in October."

Very well, John. I'll wait. If you don't mind. Andy Cohen, of Birmingham, El Paso, Buffalo and intermediate points, may be the second baseman to disenfranchise a man like Rogers Hornsby. The only point I make is that he probably hasn't proved it in the four or five days he has been in camp. He looks the part of a right good ball player, at that.

Somewhere, he has picked up many of the mannerisms of Frank Frisch, even to the latter's Graeco-Roman style of combating ground balls. He does everything well enough to indicate that he really is a major league infielder and he is hitting here with the frequency of his very impressive average in the 1927 International League race.

Frank Hogan, the spacious young man from Somerville, Mass., obtained in the Hornsby deal, will be the best catcher the Giants have sponsored in recent years, McGraw says. Jack Summings, 1927 regular, is the second catcher and probably Bill Barrett, of Savannah and Memphis, will be the third. His hitting has taken the play away from Al Spohrer, up from Wilkes-Barre and probably down again.

Four Veteran Pitchers

Vic Aldridge, Virgil Barnes, Larry Benton and Fred Fitzsimmons, veterans all, are on the pitching staff, although Dutch Henry will left-hand the situation on odd occasions. He has a few companionate recruits with him at the moment.

The infield is presumed to be "set," with Fred Lindstrom, supposedly recovered from an injured back, on third base; Travis Jackson at short, Cohen at second and Memphis Bill Terry at first. Reese will be first utility man, which means that Baxter Jordan, Charlotte shortstop, and Buck Lai, the Oriental from Audubon, N. J., probably soon will hie themselves hence. C. R. Crawford, Greenville, S. C., is coaching college baseball and hasn't reported yet.

Mr. Edward Roush will left-hand his way into camp soon to play centerfield for two sets of outfields, against right hand pitching, which means five days a week. He will range between George Harper, veteran, and Frank O'Doul, up again from the Coast League. They say Frank can't miss this time. On left-handed pitching days, Art Jahn, another Coast Leaguer, and Leslie Mann, the well-known grandfather, will play with Roush.

Jim Welsh, the other part of the Hornsby deal, and Mel Ott may break in from time to time with the left-hand outfielders but Chick Fullis, of Macon and Girardville, Pa., probably hasn't quite come to a boil yet. Charles, however, will be back as soon as he learns exactly what it is all about.

Sport Ritticisms
By BILL RITT

Singing may be taught football players so they will learn harmony and co-ordination of movement. This probably will result in ear muffs coming back into style.

Every dog should stick to his own brand of fleas. A bawling baritone has about as much business in a football massacre as a pigeon has in a Bengal tiger family fight.

All Irving Berlin would have to do is put on a sweater and he'd make another fortune. Columbia university might sign a great line coach in Giulil Gatti-Gasazza.

The Navy could get sore at the Army all over again because a couple of cadets once held jobs in the Metropolitan Opera, and Yale fire its star halfback because he sang tenor in the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music four years ago.

What a sad plight it will be when the national gridiron championship rests between the Boston Conservatory and the Cleveland Institute of Music.

But no sadder than seeing a great fullback stop in mid-plunge to the goal line to argue the correct tone inflection of the second line of "O, Promise Me."

One thing that tends to make child training difficult is the possession of less than the child has.

P.A. and a pipe—that's all I ask

I DON'T mean that I am easily satisfied. As a matter of fact, I'm as critical as they come about smoking-tobacco. There are certain things I demand in a smoke, and I declare here and now that P.A. has 'em. Has 'em and to spare, if you ask me.

Fragrant as spring blossoms. Cool as "The boss wants to see you." Sweet as "I'm going to raise your pay." Mild and mellow and long-burning, with full satisfaction in every wonderful puff. It seems that there are not enough hours in a day to suit your Prince Albert program. You'll start in early and stay with it far into the night.

But all this conversation won't do you any good, unless you try out the tobacco itself. When it comes to speaking for itself, P.A. is the best little talker you ever listened to. Go get yourself a tidy red tin and get some of this pipe-joy I've been picturing.

More in quality, more in quantity—TWO full ounces in every tin.

His Bat Still Speaks — By Feg Murray

Tristram Speaker, of the Texas Speakers, will be watched with much interest this spring as he cavorts around the outfield for the Philadelphia Athletics. The "Silver Fox" or the "Gray Eagle," whichever moniker you prefer, will attempt to broadcast to the world, in true, loud-Speaker fashion, that he is not through yet, and that, though a bit gray on the bean and a bit slow in the legs, he is still far from slow in the bean or dim in the eyes, and that the once great outfielder of the champion Red Sox of 1912 and 1915 is still an asset to any team, especially the Philadelphia Athletics.

Away back on April 4, 1888, the stork left a baby boy at the Speaker home in Hubbard, Texas. Observing that he was left-handed, his parents decided that little could be done to make him a President, a college professor, or cartoonist, so they decided there was nothing for him to do but go into professional baseball. "It will be O. K., Maw," quoth Pa Speaker, "as long as he isn't a southpaw pitcher." The lad did take a fling at this unholy way of earning a living in spite of all his parents could do, but soon saw the error of his ways and turned to the outfield, playing in seven games with the Boston Red Sox in 1907. He came back for thirty-one games in 1908, and became a regular the following year.

Besides being one of the greatest of all outfielders, Sir Tristram indulges on the side in such mild pastimes as golf, hunting, fishing, cow-punching, and amateur magic and photography. Among his records on the diamond are those of making eleven hits in succession, (July 8, 9, 10, 1920) and of making 770 two-baggers in his lifetime, more than any other player.

Feg Murray Says.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

SOMEWHERE SOUTH, March 8.—The rookies reporting to the major league camps in the south this spring for their "big chance" are of a vastly different type from those who wandered in bewildered and timid 10 and 15 years ago.

It has not been many years since bush league prospects sent to the major league camps actually returned home without reporting due to buck fever, stage fright or a sudden longing for home.

Other youngsters were found roaming unobtrusively about the hotel trying to drum up nerve enough to step up to the club manager or secretary and make their presence known.

The veterans of the team did not give the newcomer much assistance. Their interest in his arrival was usually centered on pulling a bit of horseplay at his expense.

Today all is changed.

A large percentage of the rookies have "been around" enough that the training trip awes them not a bit. Uusally he has drawn enough attention in the public prints to warrant If he isn't recognized he makes his presence quickly known.

The type of player differs materially as well.

A decade or so ago most of the rookies came from the ranks of the sandlotters. They were "home town" boys. Now the colleges are furnishing most of the material. The newcomers have acquired the self possession, confidence and general bearing of the big town folk.

None of the newcomers could duplicate if he tried the feat of a young southpaw pitcher the Cleveland ball club tried out one spring. The young man liked his pie. He consumed it in a novel way. Slicing his piece into strips he would adroitly slip his knife blade under each strip, one by one and slip the mouthful into his mouth with a deft stroke that ended with the pie on the under side of the knife.

If you have no further use for your right ear or part of your tongue try it.

A few of the old pitchers and one or two of the younger generation still use the traditional red flannel shirts with implicit faith in the capabilities of the garment in keeping out the kinks and heebie-jeebies. But the newcomers no longer bring along trick ointments, home-made rubbing grease for their pet gloves and whatnot.

The trainers have concocted rubbing liniments that outsmell anything the boys could bring. And the players who have invented self-closing catchers' mitts and shoes that won't go by a base without touching it have sold the patent rights before they break into the big time.

7A-3 Team Wins At Ben Franklin

In an interclass game played on the Benjamin Franklin Junior High floor the team representing the 7A-3 class at that institution defeated the 7B-4 quintet by the score of 12 to 5.

At the end of the first half the visitors were leading their opponents by a slim margin, the score standing 3 to 2, but the work of the 7A-3's stellar forwards soon increased this lead.

The 7A-3 team shot 6 out of 18 fouls, while their rivals made three shots out of 12 good.

Seattle Negro Is Leading Foot Race

Ed. Gardner, Seattle negro, trekked into Barstow, Calif., last night, leader of the foot racers in the coast to coast race. He was 10 minutes ahead of Arthur Nelson of England. The race will pay $48,000. Of the 275 who started 133 are still in the race after 133 miles of the 3,400 miles grind.

N. Y. STOCKS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, March 8.—The motor stocks dominated the situation in the first hour of trading on the big board today. Chrysler and Packard had the benefit of favorable earnings and production statements. Studebaker broke all of former production records in February, and General Motors had a very busy period, with the price advanced in fairly heavy trading to a new peak at 15½. Hudson was a favorite, with heavy buying demand from Detroit and Chicago investors.

General industrial and financial conditions were unchanged preparatory to the directors' meeting of General Motors Corporation the annual statement for 1927 was released for publication. If differed in no important essential from President Alfred Sloan's summarization, made about 3 weeks ago, net earnings last year were $12.09 a share, and the net assets of the corporation for the first time passed the billion dollar mark.

Weekly Review Of Iron-Steel Trade

Iron Age Tells Of Developments Of Week; Steel Corporation Operating 90 Per Cent

The Iron Age in its weekly summary of the iron and steel trade says:

Steel production is being well maintained with Steel Corporation plants operating at 90 per cent of capacity and independents averaging about 80 per cent while mill operations as a whole have ceased to expand and ingot output for this month is not expected to duplicate the record production of March 1927, there are increasing indications that the present rate of operations may carry well through April in contrast with the decline in that month a year ago.

The unfilled tonnage statement of the Steel Corporation as of March 1, will probably show little change owing to heavy shipments in February. So far this month also shipments continue to balance bookings for most mills, leaving backlogs undiminished. There are of course some exceptions both with respect to districts and commodities. At Chicago, where the week's specifications are the fourth largest in the past two years, shipping orders exceed ingot production which is at a 95 per cent rate. In the Philadelphia district, where specifying has been lagging, more tonnage is being released for rolling than in February. At Pittsburgh some recession in specifications for heavier rolled products is reported and it is inferred that buyers have accumulated enough stock so that further releases against low priced contracts can be timed to carry shipments over into April.

Among individual rolled products sheets have shown a marked gain in specifications. February tonnage releases received by the leading sheet maker were equal to 90 per cent of capacity and for the first week in March actually exceeded full theoretical capacity. Both the automotive industry and farm implement makers are pressing for deliveries of sheets as well as bars. Youngstown district mills are finding it necessary to operate extra turns to satisfy the increasing requirements of automobile builders, which in virtually no cases represent anticipated needs. In fact many motor car plants are depending on daily deliveries to maintain their production schedules.

Steel prices show little change following recent advances. The increase $1 a ton to 1.90c. Pittsburgh on plates, shapes and bars is not yet fully established since some mills allowed their customers to cover for both early and second quarter needs at the previous price of 1.85c. In other products outside of rails and tin plate there has been little contracting for second quarter. Automobile companies in many cases are limiting forward purchases to their April requirements.

Makers of wire products and wire rods have opened books for second quarter at unchanged prices. Leading producers of large rivets have announced an advance of $3 a ton effective at once. Steel tie plates on the other hand have generally declined $2 a ton to $43 mill. Rail mill backlogs which are fully 200,000 tons larger than a year ago will help to sustain ingot output in the second quarter. Chicago rail mills have enough tonnage booked to insure a high rate of operations until June 1.

Structural awards amount to 45,000 tons while more than 40,000 tons was added to work under negotiation. Storage tanks ordered by three Texas oil producers call for a total of 12,000 tons of plates. Demand for oil country pipe however is low and while heavier orders for pipe for building work are looked for with the approach of spring it is doubtful whether the expansion will be as great as usual. Distribution of pipe to a larger extent than in recent years is on consignee accounts which have been rounded out by mills since the first of the year.

Scrap is weak in nearly all large consuming and producing districts. The heavy production of scrap by automobile companies has been reflected in lower prices at Middle West consuming centers.

Hope For Speedy Vote On Muscle Shoals Measure

Possibility That Debate On Power Project May Be Carried Into Next Week

SMALL-SIZED TARIFF WAR IS THREATENED

Tax On Fertilizer May Be Lowered As Means Of Aid To Farmers

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 8.—A small-sized tariff war may be projected into the Senate debate over disposition of the government's $100,000,000 Muscle Shoals project, it was learned today.

Senator Fletcher (D) of Florida, announced he would sponsor an amendment to the Muscle Shoals bill, repealing the tariff on ammonium phosphate, used as the basis for fertilizer. He said he would take this action to determine whether the Senate really desired to lift the fertilizer burdens from the American farmers.

"The tariff on ammonium phosphate is $30 a ton," said Fletcher. "Ammonium phosphate is 60 per cent plant food. It has most of the ingrediants desired in fertilizer, except potash. Many farmers, however, use potash separately. If the senators, who talk of lifting fertilizer burdens from the farmers, mean what they say, they will repeal this tax on fertilizer. I shall give the Senate an opportunity to vote on it."

Administration leaders have fought every similar move to attach tariff-reducing legislation as "riders" on other measures. They have denounced all "efforts to tinker with the tariff".

Leaders on both sides were hoping for a vote in the Senate by Friday afternoon. There was a possibility though that debate might be extended into next week.

Three Are Indicted By Grand Jury In Returns To Court

In final returns by the grand jury today a true bill was found against Phoebe M. Frye, charged with obtaining casket and funeral services by false pretense. It is claimed that she represented to Charles M. Kelley that she had two life insurance policies, one for $500 and one for $1,900 on her husband, Merle Frye. It is alleged that this was false and done for the purpose of defrauding Kelley out of the funeral expenses.

A true bill was also found against Angelina Spencer, charged with keeping a disorderly house in Shenango township when idleness, gambling, drinking and other misbehavior caused the place to be a common nuisance to the neighborhood.

W. L. Hill was indicted for fraudulently issuing a check without funds. It is claimed that Hill gave a worthless check to Charles E. Cox, the check being drawn upon the Marine Trust company of Atlantic City, N. J. The check was for $25.

NEW CASTLE DRY GOODS CO.

Roaming Round With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle.

Basketball is a great game but when the teams are unevenly matched it has about as much interest as a hundred yard dash between two snails. And the game between New Castle and Monaca in Pittsburgh last night was about that interesting.

Monaca had no more reason for playing New Castle than Beatrice Fairfax has for challenging Gene Tunney and from the first whistle there never was any doubt as to the outcome. Had New Castle been on its game the score would have been about 57 to 7 or thereabouts. The local lads made a flock of these "Heaven help us" shots from the middle of the floor and the darn things went through the hoops. As a game it was just one of those things, but it had to be played as Monaca was the technical champion of its section.

Four of us went out to the Pitt stadium with a taxi driver who must have been in love. He seemed to be in a fog and after driving out the boulevard and over a lot of side streets he asked where the Pitt stadium was. Business then of descending a hill by means of a snake-like road, with stops now and then to find out where he was going. He was a willing lad, though, willing to haul us all over Oakland as long as the meter held out and it never took a cramp. For a time I thought he imagined the game was being played in Turtle Creek or Scottdale. One of these kind of lads who thinks Trader Horn is a new kind of saxophone.

Going back to town was an experience. Six of us shoe horned into another taxi and getting six lads like Harley Crowe and Benny Nelson into a taxi is like crowding a couple of muscallonge into a sardine can. The body of the car sank so low that the fenders acted as a brake and the Jehu running the hack thought he was hauling a load of Scotchmen. Nice idea that of charging the same for half a dozen as for one passenger. Wish the restaurants would start it.

It was an orderly train, both ways. Not many on it, and most of those students, and the order was as good as a meeting of the Dorcas society. The home team had won, but what was the use of cheering? The girls' team of the senior high school might have had a little trouble with Monaca but not much. But they had pretty uniforms.

It wouldn't be a half bad idea to take the band down for the next game. You've seen those youngsters marching around Franklin stadium at a football game when every note came out of the horns embellished in a frame of ice, when the keys froze up, and the player's lip was as cold as a piece of cold storage liver. Wouldn't it be appropriate to take the youngsters down for the next game and let them loosen a few of the beams with their playing?

There is always one fan you can depend upon to be at any sporting event, and that's Dr. Matheny. The doctor follows the team in any kind of sport, and any kind of weather. Whether it's a good game or a bad game the doctor is in there rooting and can qualify as a blown in the bottle fan.

Large Audience Greets Dr. Owen At Trinity Church

A second time, the special preacher of the evening complimented Trinity church on the size of the congregation last night attending the mid-week Lenten service.

Dr. Owen preached a fine sermon on "The Temptations of Christ," applying them in a searching way to modern conditions and the problems of every day life. To date, Lent is being more largely observed, as far as public worship is concerned, in Trinity church than in many years past. This, despite the large losses in the last three years by removal of families to other towns, cities and villages.
